SCHOOL TEACHERS.

The legislature passed a law by which school districts are now being permitted to build and furnish teachers homes. Farmington is now in line to have a honge for the Superintendent of Schools. The churches furnish homes for the pastors to free them from renting undesirable, unsanitary, and waterlogged houses from village plutocrats. Why not free the superintendent of schools from similar condition? The building of a home for a teacher would be a long step from the qld-fashioned board around system still a memory to some of this generation. A teacher in Redford township once told of going to spend herweek with a patron of the school. Sitting in the shade of a tree she saw the farmer come up to the back steps; take up a pail of swill; pour the swill into a trought in the pig pen; rinse the pain and school patron. The last legislature has passed an act which may volve sanely and reasonably a question which has caused much embarrassment to school districts throughtout the state.

Very often you can identify the reliaw who keeps his automobile in his own garage by the condition of the fenders of his automobile. They are bent down somewhat, or dented, and otherwise disfigured, because in driving in or backing out of his garage has a halify of migludging the distance between the fender and the domain and the form that the force has a short of the garage can be as a halify of migludging the distance between the fender and the domain and before he can stop moving.
