GOLD MINE LURE FOR 300 YEARS

Fabulous Treasure Said to Be Hidden in Sierra Madre Mountains in Mexico.

BYING PRIEST TELLS SECRET

Mexico City Contains Records of the Old Mine and Prospectors Have Reported Seeing the Ruins, but None Reached Them.

Bisbee, Ariz.—For 300 years, according to reliable records, the Sierra Madre mountains of Sonora and Chihuahua, Mexico, have held the secret of a gold mine of fabulous richness and a vast treasure store of gold, mined and hidden away in an inaccessible tunnel.

The romance of the gold hunter is written in the history of man's efforts through the centuries to reach and bring back to civilization this wealth of the Old Tzopa mines. Murders and violence have marked many of these efforts, and still in many hardy forests of this mining country to-day there still stirs the spirit which has prompted many to brave the dangers of starvation, thirst and death at the hands of Indian Indians and outlaws in the search for gold.

Records at Capital.
Mexico City contains records of the old mine, and several prospectors, one of them Jack Dunn, a geologist, discovered the Warren district, have reported seeing the ruins of the old mine, but none ever reached there.

According to records at the Mexican capital, in the latter part of the seventeenth century the isolated village of Old Tzopa was pillaged by Indians, who destroyed the town and killed all the inhabitants except a priest.

At Farmington for several weeks the priest, named at a little town called Agua Fria, on the Faqui river, where he was raised and cared for by a Mexican family. His hardships were so great that before he died he gave the family a description and map of the mining camp. He also reported that the gold obtained from several years of mining had been stored in an old tunnel, because of the impossibility of shipment to civilization.

The story and map, it is said, have been handed down from family to family for generations. Those who attempted to reach the camp lost their outfits, and many did not return. The Indians for years menaced all prospectors and this condition still exists, augmented by bands of outlaws. Max Covilla, for several years Mexican consul at Naco, is said to have been the latest possessor of the priest's map.

Has Twice Seen Ruins.
He claimed he had succeeded in getting as far as Casa Blanca, from which the ruins of Old Tzopa are visible, and it was reported he had not given up hopes of reaching the place at his death several years ago.

Here Greaser, a local man, twice started with two companions to make the perilous journey, but was forced back because of insufficient equipment, Indians and outlaws.

Some remarkable gold specimens have been brought back from the vicinity of the Old Tzopa, but so far as known no one ever reached the mines since the old town was destroyed centuries ago.

THIS STATE HIGHEST, LOWEST

Survey by Government Bureau Shows California Sets Marks for United States.

Washington.—The highest and lowest points in the United States are in California, within ninety miles of each other, says a bulletin issued by the geological survey. Mount Whitney, the highest point, is 14,501 feet above sea level and in Death valley there is a depression that lies 276 feet below sea level.

The difference in height of these two points is small, however, the survey states, as compared with the difference in the height and depth of land in Asia. Mount Everest rises 29,002 feet above sea level, whereas the shores of the Dead sea lie 1,200 feet below.

Information in the hands of the survey shows that the greatest depth yet found in any ocean is 32,088 feet, a depth at a point about 60 miles north of the island of Mindanao in the Philippines. This would make the bottom of the sea at that point more than 11½ miles below the summit of Mount Everest.

Masonic Emblems in Quilt.
Jeffersonville, Ind.—The Pastors and Society of the First Presbyterian church is completing work on a quilt of unusual design. The quilt was designed by Dr. Giles E. Mower, formerly physician at the Indiana reformatory, and it will include the emblem of every branch of Masonry from the Blue lodge to the highest rank.

Many Children.
East St. Louis, Ill.—"He's the sweetest," declared Mrs. Sidney Johnson when her husband came home from work. "Again!" gasped the city's champion father, as he took the new baby in his arms. The Johnsons have been married twenty-three years.

Babylonian Division of Time.
The Babylonians gave us an hour with 60 minutes. They divided the sun's path into 24 passages, a measure equal to about four and a half miles, or the distance a Babylonian soldier could hike in an hour with full pack. The astronomers of that day somehow worked it out that the sun made the same progress. They divided the sun's path, course into 24 passages, or 30 degrees each passage, or hour, being divided into 60 minutes, and then, having fallen on evil days, they multiplied the system down to the Greeks, who passed it on.
