I. The Idolatry of the Athenians

(v. 16).
Athens was the intellectual metropolis of the world at that time, the home of the world's great eloqueace and philosophy. Paul's spirit was attred within him when he saw the city wholly given to idolatry.

II, The Parties Concerned (vv. 1721).

True to his usual custom Paul went into the Jewish synagogue and entered into earness argument with the Jews.
From them he turned to such as were found in the market place. Here he came into touch with the Epicurean and Stote, philosophers. The former were atheistic materialists. They denied the doctrine of Creation. They gave themselves up to sensual indulgences since they had no idea of future judgment. The latter were pantheists. When they heard the preaching of Paul they desired to know what new doctrine he preached, so they juvited him to the Arcopagus where he might speak to them of his new doctrine. They faquired as to what this "habbler" might say. The word "babbler" means literally "seedpicker."

1.3. A declaration concerning God (yr. 24, 25). (a) He created the material universe (y. 24). This was a direct blow at the bplicosophy of both the Epicernens and the Stoics. He did not attempt to prove the existence of God; it singles in Stoics. He did not attempt to prove the existence of God; it singles in Stoics. He did not attempt to prove the existence of a divine being. (b) His spirituality and timeistry (vr. 24, 24). He is not served with "men? anads as though he needed anythin;" neither its He conlined by any sort or religious temple. Hedge generality aprinciple. (d) Pressing obligation to repent (yr. 80, 31). This was his supreme, message. Though God had formerly passed over idolative He now calls to all men to repeat. The solemn reason for such action is the coming day of judgment, the credential of which is the resurrection of God and the season of the season of God and the message over idolative He now calls to all men to repeat. When car owners return from their summer vacution many of them return Himpins. A new summer epidemic is at large in the ranks of vacationists. Special Care of Baby.

That Bay should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infrant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialities in children's diseases.

Your Physician will, dell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and, Children's Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.
