The Rooster Crows

Yes, but who pays any attention to his crowing? We all know it is nothing but a bluff. But when the old her cackles she is telling the world that she

In other words, she is advertising. There is a difference between crowing and advertising. In the case of the fowls, the difference was an egg. Our bank advertises, but we try to avoid crowing. When we speak of the real accomplishments of our when we speak of the real accompositions with the bank we are not crowing, we are advertising—cackling if you please.

And we have a cackling coming, don't forget that.
