A KIND WORD FOR CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE

William Allen White, noted Kansas editor and author, has paid warm tribute to chambers of commerce, boards of trade, business clubs or whatever may be the name of such organizations. Of all the organizations established in communities for promotion of business, industrial and civic welfare, Mr. White places the chamber of commerce at the top of the list. It is refreshing to hear a man of Mr. White's attainments express the appreciation every wise and thoughtful man must feel for these organizations, when so many men who do not think or are influenced by unwise judgement are inclined to call them "mutual admiration societies."

Writing in Collier's, Mr. White says:

"The chamber of commerce today in the American small town and in the American city is the leading exponent of altruism in the community. It is not a wide interurban altruism that the chamber of commerce fosters; it is Higginsville first. But it is for Higginsville all the time. The chamber of commerce modifies the innate cussedness of the average selfish, hard-boiled, picayunish, penny-pinching, narrow-gauged, human porker, and lifts up his snout; makes him see further than his home, his business and his personal interests, and sets him rooting for his community.

"It is a shorter step from the city to the state, from the state to the nation, and from the nation to humanity, that the tremendous jump which a man must take to consider his city before his own interests. And the town chamber of commerce is giving the first lesson in practical Christianity to millions of savages in America. It is not a full baptism, but it helps.

"A man, no matter how greedy and squint-eyed he may be, cannot work a year upon any moderately important committee of his town's chamber of commerce without being a better father, a better husband a better citizen, a better brother."—Michigan Manufacturer.

Pertinent Questions

Banks are required to keep a certain amount of money in reserve in order to comply with the law and the demands of safe conservative banking.

If reserve funds are a good thing for a Bank, why wouldn't they be a good thing for you? Why not keep some money on deposit in a good bank like ours, as a reserve in case of emergencies? It will be safe there until you may need it. No better time than now to start.

—Take Advantage of the High Price of Eggs.—

Today one dozen eggs are worth as much as 1½ bushels of oats, more than one bushel of shelled corn, and two dozen eggs will buy a bushel of wheat. Grains for poultry are down to the 1914 prices, while eggs are selling at war prices. The reason for this is people do not understand how to make them lay the year round. In order for the poultry-keeper to take advantage of the low-priced grains and high-priced eggs, it is necessary that he use the most efficient egg-producing feeds. Experts advise to feed only at the ratio of 12 lbs Scratch Feed to 100 hens per day but keep a happy full of Egg Mash before the flock at all times.

We carry a full line of Globe, Krause and Sacre Scratch and Mash Feeds.
