

CLARENCEVILLE NEWS

Clarenceville School Notes.

How is your nose, Clayton?
Ruth Meyers is back in school again after a two weeks' absence.
Eight graders at very busy working for the County Examinations, which come early in May.
Parent-Teachers' meeting at one school house Friday, March 16th. Everyone welcome. A program has been arranged.
Don't miss seeing Carl the Huntsman and the King and Queen. They will be expecting you, and you will be royally entertained.
Please reserve Thursday of Friday night, next, to pay a visit to the Prince and Princess. That is, if you are interested in your school and more especially in your children. The admission is only 15 and 25 cents. May we expect you?

Just a minute now, while we have your attention, have you seen Snow White and the Funny Dwarfs No. Well this is our little secret, but don't you tell anyone, just come to the Clarenceville school house either Thursday or Friday nights, March 16, or 17, and you will be very agreeably surprised and entertained by the Operetta given by the first three grades.

"This the most peculiar water ever tasted, nothing like that." Sorgham Center, State of West Virginia, says the Deacon. What! you are not acquainted with the deacon? Last week we promised to tell you more of him. he fell in the well and got his feet wet, so he had to take a drink of "water" to stave off a cold. But we can't tell you all so just watch this space and next week we may tell you more definitely just when you may expect him and how to make his acquaintance.

Costly Debauch.
One of the calamities of medieval England was directly due to that indulgence in liquor. Henry's son and heir, William, was to sail from France on the White Ship. The Norman sailors got drunk just before they started for England, and the vessel was lost with all on board. It was a costly debauch, for by removing Henry's only male heir it opened the way for a civil war over the succession when he was no more.

OAKLAND COUNTY FARM BOYS' CONFERENCE

AT DAVISBURG APRIL 15-16.

The date for Oakland County's Second Farm Boys' Conference has just been set for April 15-16 and a very active committee of men and boys at Davisburg is working on the plans for the program.
Something distinctly new and original is expected in the way of contests of skill, such as is developed among the boys who are working on the farms.
The program will start early Saturday morning, continuing all day, including a period of games and contests in the afternoon, with a banquet at night.
Because of the limited capacity of the halls for meetings and meals only one hundred tickets will be sold outside of Davisburg; therefore, early registrations will be required.

LINER COLUMN.

WANTED—Lady to assist in a Dig &amp; Whistle, Farmington J.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their sympathy and flowers sent during Mrs. Shear's illness. Also the M. E. Ladies Aid society and the Women's Home Missionary society. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shears and Family.

LOCAL NEWS.

Little Emily Maas is confined to her home with chicken-pox.

Violet Mae Hutchins has been very sick with the measles and was threatened with pneumonia. She is still under the doctor's care.

Mrs. Bert Hutchins was a Northville visitor Tuesday, spending the day with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Peters, formerly of Livonia Center.

Amsterdam Has Good Idea.
The people of Amsterdam are taught how to behave in public—that is, on which side of the pavement to walk, how to carry canes and umbrellas, etc., by means of official motion pictures.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

The haystack will make a deeper hole in the ground than lightning—Heraclitus.

With God go ever of the sea; without Him, not over the threshold—Russian Proverb.

New York City has been assigned 245,000 license plates for passenger automobiles for 1922.

Universals do require greasing and it is a good idea to grease the joints every two months or so.

The production of most vehicles in the United States this year, it is said, will exceed 1,700,000 cars.

A wife who does not let her low toilet her husband makes him commit to end of himself.

When marriage is a fraud and a woman for her virtues you may be certain that it is another day of saying that she is ugly.

Pawnbroker's Sign.

The Emperor Augustus Caesar, B. C., instituted a fund for lending to needy persons on pledges. The institutions, called "Monti di Pietà," arose at Perugia, in Italy, about 1462 A. D. The first pawnbrokers in England were Italian Lombards, and the three still used as their sign. The sign is said to have been derived from the arms of the Medici family, adopted, according to legend, in memory of Alverado de Medici, a commander under Charles VIII, who was the giant, Mucchio, whose club it bore as a trophy. This club or mace had at its head three iron balls, which the family of Medici adopted as their device.

Her Class.

The mistress was rather alarmed over her new girl's initial illness until the latter explained matters. "You see, mum," she said, "I can't feel well and I went to the clinic, and there was a bottle marked 'This drops for an infant, six for an adult, and a teaspoonful for an emetic.' I knew I wasn't an infant. I was sure about an adult, so I thought I must be an emetic, and I took the spoonful."—Boston Transcript.

The Word "Trash."

The word "trash" originally meant fine brushwood or twigs. Sellers of firewood frequently filled in the center of the bundle of sticks with the small, useless stuff to make the bundle seem bigger.

The Doctor's Revenge

By CLARA SMITH

Arabel, the Russian consul in the city of the Minsk, paced his library listlessly, listening to the murmurings of the doctors' voices in the next room. His only daughter, Olga, had been ill for weeks of a mysterious disease, which had slowly, but surely, taken its toll of her vitality. Olga was devoted, and, since her mother's death, she had been the apple of his eye.

The consul was just about to rush distractedly into the room where the consultation of specialists was being held, when the door opened and they fled.

"You can save her!" cried the consul eagerly.

"There is only one man can save her," answered the senior doctor. "That is I, Arabel."

"The Jewish specialist of the East?"

"But when they got Arabel on the telephone, they listened to a brief message which, when repeated, caused the consul to explode with anger.

"Go to him!" he exclaimed. "Why should I go to him? Isn't my daughter's life worth more than the lives of all the thousands of wretches who swarm in these parts? Tell him to come at once, and I'll pay him double what he could make in a month."

But the doctors could not get into communication with Arabel again, and finally, fretting and fuming, the consul ordered his automobile and was driven down to those parts which he had rightly characterized as "unsavory."

The Esplanade of most middle-western cities is the least pretentious in appearance, and the acuter of the streets through which M. Basiloff passed sent his memory whirling back among the slums of Minsk. He had secretly indicated the Jewish masses which had swarmed after thousands of men and women flying to America for refuge, after their children, fathers, mothers, friends had been slaughtered before their eyes. Among these had been Arabel, then a poor lad with a penchant for medicine which he could not gratify until he reached the tropics of America. That, perhaps, explained the doctor's attitude, but how was Basiloff to know that?

The consul got out of his carriage and entered the house in which the doctor lived. What the consul sought to pass into his office an attendant politely restrained him.

"Say that I am M. Basiloff, his imperial majesty's consul here," exclaimed the visitor angrily.

"Everybody must take his turn," replied the attendant, suavely.

At last, when his turn came, he was shown in. Doctor Arabel, bland, civil, but sharp, bade him sit down.

Arabel listened in silence.

"When can you come?" pleaded the consul.

"Now," answered Arabel.

Twenty minutes later the two men were standing in the room where the sick girl lay. Around her were grouped the famous physicians, helpless in the presence of this rare disease. The consul left Arabel there and went back to his library.

When at last the doctors entered again he came forward almost humbly to meet them; and instead of his old, arrogant demeanor, there was submission in his inquiry:

"She will live," said Arabel, quietly.

It was explained that the operation would have to be performed almost immediately.

At last the day arrived when the crisis was past, and the consul took Arabel by the hands and, in Russian fashion, kissed him on either cheek.

"I do not know how to thank you or to remunerate you, except with thanks and gratitude," he said. "But you must name your fee, Doctor Arabel. No matter what you ask, it shall be yours."

"Well, M. Basiloff," the doctor answered, "since you wish to remunerate me as best you can, let me be no fee in this case."

The consul was almost indignant.

"You must be repaid," he said.

"I have been remunerated," replied the doctor.

"Do you remember the massacre at Minsk sixteen years ago, M. Basiloff?" asked Doctor Arabel, in a strange light coming into his eyes. "You were governor of Minsk. They told you could have stopped it."

"Well," M. Basiloff, the doctor answered, "since you wish to remunerate me as best you can, let me be no fee in this case."

The consul was almost indignant.

"You must be repaid," he said.

"I have been remunerated," replied the doctor.

"Do you remember the massacre at Minsk sixteen years ago, M. Basiloff?" asked Doctor Arabel, in a strange light coming into his eyes. "You were governor of Minsk. They told you could have stopped it."

"Well," M. Basiloff, the doctor answered, "since you wish to remunerate me as best you can, let me be no fee in this case."

The consul was almost indignant.

"You must be repaid," he said.

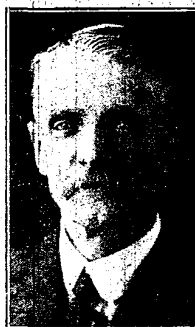

"I have been remunerated," replied the doctor.

"Do you remember the massacre at Minsk sixteen years ago, M. Basiloff?" asked Doctor Arabel, in a strange light coming into his eyes. "You were governor of Minsk. They told you could have stopped it."

"Well," M. Basiloff, the doctor answered, "since you wish to remunerate me as best you can, let me be no fee in this case."

Stop! Wait! Save your money!

—SAYS JONES—

Lewis Jones

COMING EVENTS CAST THEIR SHADOWS BEFORE

THE LAST OF THE SEASONS

SENSATIONAL LOOM-UP AND

Clearance Sale

WONDERFUL VALUES

FOR MEN and WOMEN WHO WAITED.

COMMENCING

Saturday
March 18

AUCTION

L. W. LOVEWELL, Auctioneer.

The undersigned having decided to quit farming, will sell at Public Auction, on the premises, 4½ miles west of Northville, on the Fishery Road, or 1 mile east and 1 mile north of Salem, on—

Thur. March 16th

Commencing at 12:30 Sharp.

HORSES

1 Bay Horse, 15 yr. wt., 1,300lb
1 Brown Horse, 12 yr. wt. 1,300lb

MILCH COWS

1 White Cow, 6 yr, fresh Jan 3rd
1 Holstein Cow, 5 yr, due April 31
1 Holstein Cow, 4 yr, due in April
1 Holstein Cow, 6 yr, due in March
1 Holstein Cow, 6 yr, due in April
1 Black Cow, 6 yr, due in April
1 Red and White Cow, 5 yr, due in April
1 Holstein Cow, 6 yr, due in Nov.
1 Holstein Cow, 5 yr, due Oct. 12

HOGS

1 Brood Sow, 1 yr, due in April

FARM TOOLS

1 Ohio Valley Hay Loader
1 Deering Corn Binder, 1 Hay Rake
1 Champion Grain Binder
1 Champion Mower, 1 Shovel Plow
1 No. 42 Oliver Plow
1 Slip Scraper, 1 Buzz Saw
1 No. 99 Oliver Plow
1 Spring-Tooth Cultivator
1 2-Horse Cultivator, 1 Top Buggy
1 Open Buggy, 1 Iron Harrow
1 Spring-Tooth Harrow
1 Steel Land Roller, 2 Milk Cans
1 6-h.p. Kerosene Engine (Detroit)
1 David Bradley Road Grinder
1 1-Horse Bob Sleigh, 1 Milk Wagon
1 2-Horse Bob Sleigh
1 Ross Copting Box
1 Lumber Wagon, 1 Tank Heater
A FEW HOUSEHOLD GOODS

TERMS—All Cash of $10 and under, Cash; other than amount, 9 month's time will be given on approved bankable notes bearing 7 per cent interest.

R. W. KEHRL

PROPRIETOR
F. A. NORTHRUP, Clerk.

WILLYS-KNIGHT

REDUCED
TODAY TO

$1375

The Sleeve Valve Motor—Improves With Use

A WONDERFUL CAR AT A WONDERFUL PRICE

Sedan reduced '300 to '2995 Coupe reduced '320 to '1875
Touring reduced '150 to '1375 Roadster reduced '125 to '1350
All prices f.o.b. Toledo

Willys-Overland Sales &amp; Service