No. 170 on Overland Roadster

In the Overland Roadster you are getting practically two cars for the one price. The turtle-back is quickly removed to permit the substitution of a box panel, or a light express flare-board body. These slip-on bodies fill a big need in the day's work of the merchant and the salesman.

An unusual value is provided in this Overland roadster. For social purposes, for the farmer's quick trips to town, for the salesman who must cover a wide territory, there is no car in the market of greater endurance or greater economy.
