WALTER PHIPPS FARM

A Dangerous Flirtation
By MARVIN BROWN.

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.

Lily Price took down her hair and smiled at her reflection in the mirror of her room. Then she smiled at the remembrance of the evening. Mr. Ferris was evidently in love with her, and while she could not honestly have encouraged him, she could not avoid a certain feeling of elation.

Her father, a hard-working city clerk, had sent her to this expensive mountain hotel in order to accelerate her recovery from an illness brought on by long confinement in a stuffy office. Lily was engaged to John Shaw, the curate of her home town.

She had spent the whole evening with Ferris, and had just promised to go driving with him on the morrow.

She went to bed happy, and arose next morning with the same sense of elation. It was said that Ferris was rich.

She frowned when she saw a letter from John beside her plate. She read it with a contraction of her pretty brows. John breathed devotion in every syllable, and he was coming to Lakeview lodge that very day, to spend the week-end with her. In that case there would be no drive with Philip Ferris.

"And now, Miss Price," asked Ferris, a few minutes later, coming up to her as she sat on the veranda. "I saw you looking unhappy over a letter and I hoped it was nothing unpleasant."

"Oh, no," said Lily with a sigh, putting away the letter in her bag.

"Then how about our drive?" volunteered Ferris. "Have you ever been round Blue Mountain?"

"I'm afraid I can't go," Mr. Ferris, said Lily. "I'm expecting a friend—"

"Mean my—?" She broke off in confusion.

Ferris smiled understandingly. He had no desire of marrying her; it was only a week-end flirtation.

"It will be a tragedy to me, if you won't come," he said, pressing her hand ever so gently. "You have made me mortally jealous of your friend."

"Oh, he's so slow," Lily burst out petulantly. She sprang to her feet. "I'll come," she said, and ran into the house.

John Shaw was due to arrive at four. He would arrive to discover that Lily was away. Well, she did not care. It should be a lesson to him.

At three o'clock promptly she entered the carriage. The drive was splendid. As they ascended the mountain road Ferris leaned toward her.

"I'm mortally jealous of that sweet-heart of yours," he said. "Who is he?"

"He's a clergyman," answered Lily. Ferris burst into a roar of laughter. "A clergyman. Ho, ho!" he roared. "Then there wouldn't be any harm in this!"

He drew her to him and kissed her. It was not the first time that the girl had been kissed, even excepting John, but there was something in the young man's demeanor that aroused her.

"Please don't," she begged, as he showed every sign of repeating the act. "That isn't honorable."

"Why isn't it honorable?" asked Ferris, letting the horse gallop on with loose reins.

KNIGHT

Transportation Luxury

THE popularity of the Willys-Knight motor cars is a natural reflection of the enthusiasm which motor experts always express.

The first thing that impresses you, other than the smooth, even flow of power, is the quietness with which the car operates.

Many new motorists operate quietly, it is true, but the outstanding feature of the Willys-Knight Sleeve-Valve Motor is that this quietness improves with age—and the motor gains in power! It actually makes use of the carbon that works havoc in the usual type of motor.

There is a richness and dignity to the Willys-Knight closed cars that captivates you the moment you see it.

And you will find its growing popularity confirms your good judgement when you decide to order a Willys-Knight closed car.
