

EQUIPPED TO SERVE YOU WELL

This is the Day of Thanksgiving

Let us be thankful for the many blessings and opportunities we are enjoying; also let us ponder well whether we are seizing upon these opportunities to our best advantage.

Many years ago, Lord Stanley said, "Opportunity sooner or later comes to all who work and wish." He should have said, "Work, Wish and Save."

Working and spending all we make, or wishing without working will never get us anywhere; but a combination of the three will undoubtedly bring the desired results.

You are working now; you are probably wishing too; Add Saving—Then watch the results.

This bank will help.

THE HIGH SCHOOL TATTLER

As one enters the second grade room a delicate perfume makes one take an extra large breath. One can not help but let one's eyes seek the giver of such a delightful odor. It is found to be a cluster of narcissus blossoms on a corner of the teacher's desk.

Third Grade—Manuel Long has left the school and entered a Detroit school.

In geography the third graders are studying the sections of the silk worm.

Marvel Auten, Ronald Bell, Wanda Drake, Fredrick Dresser, Jack Frantz, Gillie Grimmer, Roy Keller, Dorothy Marsh, Kenneth Ronald, Lavern Turner, Elizabeth Turner, Perice in Robs and Harold Westfall have been neither tardy nor absent for a month.

Fourth Grade—The border in this room is a design cut from red paper of an Indian and Pilgrim's skin hands.

This is on a background of white. In the fourth grade room there is also another table worth climbing the stairs to view. I'll describe it, because so many people dislike climbing stairs. It is an Indian camp. A pan of water represents a lake. On the lake a small birch canoe floats about.

The fourth graders never tire of looking at their work of art, and it is a very appropriate piece of art for the month of November.

If one has visited the first grade before entering the fourth grade room, they will recognize the perfume of the narcissus. This room has a very pretty bowl of narcissus.

Fifth Grade—Francis Drake presented the fifth grade room with a picture of Lincoln.

There is a new dictionary for the fifth grade room.

Several weeks ago I told of an automobile race in this room, but at that time the winner was not known. The winner was Johnny Lapham. He stuck to the Ford.

Three cheers for the fifth grade. They won the silk tag offered to the room securing the largest number of people to join the Parent-Teachers' association.

Every morning a salute is given the flag with pride.

This room is still telling the story "Treasure Island," by Stevenson.

The English class is writing letters to the teacher. All well written letters will receive a reply.

Seventh Grade—Seventh graders have been learning a Thanksgiving poem.

Eighth Grade—In this class the English pupils have divided into two sections.

One section is making believe it existed in 1621, the other is supposing that it lived in 2023. The two sections are exchanging letters.

Those living in Farmington in 2023 write about the way they think things will be then. Those in 1621, or the time of the pilgrims, write about things of that time.

A great deal of laughter is enjoyed by the things the group of 2023 write about.

High School—On the night of the Parents' visiting night the seniors stock of candy diminished a great deal.

The freshman English class has divided into two groups. The leader of one group is Cedric Harger, the leader of the other group is Irene Vader. There is a battle between these two groups for good English.

The Sophomores have also divided and are doing the same as freshmen. The leaders in this grade are Elizabeth Clark and Alma Lorow.

Music and Art—Some splendid "Good English" posters have been made by the art class and are now on display in the high school building.

Thanksgiving songs are being learned by the chorus.

The Boys' Glee Club sang at the Parent-Teachers' meeting Saturday night.

The art class is studying clay problems which is a way to collect form images.

On Last Thursday night, Parent-Teachers' visiting night, there were about 250 sitters at the school.

At the meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association Saturday night, about 40 members were present.

The question of sewing hot lunches at noon in the school lunch room was discussed.

This movement is favored by all, and that it will be carried out almost a positive fact. The announcement that Prof. E. D. Henderson would speak on the subject, "Parent-Teachers' Associations," at the next meeting, which will be Dec. 13th.

Society News

Mrs. S. D. Harger entertained the school faculty at a dinner in her home last Wednesday night.

After the dinner a meeting was held under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' association and the lunch room was discussed.

IN FARMINGTON VACANT LOTS

A careful estimate of Farmington's future growth and a comparison of her best lot values with the best in Detroit, Redford, Royal Oak, Birmingham and other desirably located suburbs show that our values are very low. Many of them will more than double within 5 years. For example: I have beautifully located lots with all improvements, high restrictions and approximately 12,000 sq. ft. area for $1,000. In Detroit on a street of equal desirability a lot with approximately 4000 sq. ft. area sells for $3900—one third the area and three times the price.

With only 10 per cent down and $9 per month, the increased value is bound to make you an average of 100 per cent per annum on the actual money invested. Figure it out for yourself.

I positively have the best lot values in Farmington.
