

Farmington Community Library presents films

"Between Men" is a study of men in the military and how the service affected their lives and attitudes. The movie will be shown at about 4:30 p.m. March 25 in the Farmington Hills branch library on 12 Mile.

Both branches of the Farmington Community Library will present Blue Ribbon award winning films from the 21st Annual American Film Festival March 24-25.

The festival was conducted during May 1979 in New York. It showcases outstanding 16mm releases from the preceding year, recognizing the achievements of film makers who are judged through 56 subject categories. Among the categories of films presented are social documentaries, science, sports, performing arts and business and industry.

Thirty of the winners will be presented free of charge in Farmington and Farmington Hills.

The following will be presented from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., March 24 in the Farmington Hills branch on Twelve Mile between Farmington and Orchard Lake Roads.

Focusing on six individuals, the film documents their problems as well as their attempts at coping with the numerous psychosocial effects of the condition. The film may also serve as a role model for the patients and their families.

THE FOLLOWING films will be shown from 7 to 9 p.m., March 24 in the Farmington branch library on Liberty.

"Frankenthaler — Toward a New

Climate," 30 minutes, color. At 24, Helen Frankenthaler invented the stained canvas and influenced a whole generation of colorist painters. Since that time she has matured into one of the most durable and inventive of contemporary American artists. Tracing the background and evolution of her work, the highlight of the film is a sequence in which the camera follows the actual creation of a Frankenthaler painting.

"Sam Smith: Genuine England," 18 minutes, color. Introduces this unique artist-craftsman whose world figures evade both the categories of toy and
