Merrill Lynch invites you to a free Seminar.

In a period where people are frantically looking for "collectibles" in the hope of appreciation, you may be surprised to learn that there is one that has been sadly neglected.

While prices of the "collectibles"—antiques, stamps, etc.—have already experienced dramatic advances this neglected "collectible" is still selling at 1960 prices. What is it?
The answer: Common Stocks

The last undervalued "collectible."

At Merrill Lynch, we watch thousands of common stocks every day and we see many indications that convince us that common stocks are the prime investment for the 1980's.

We see interest rates at levels that cannot be sustained indefinitely. We see high corporate profits and dividends, and stock prices that have not yet begun to reflect them. And inflation is steadily pushing the value of corporate assets upwards.

In fact, many stock prices have already begun to outpace other forms of investment. And we think this is only the beginning of a long-term trend.

May we tell you more?

Merrill Lynch is holding a free Seminar and there are several good reasons to come. We'll discuss all the factors which we think make common stocks such a good investment now. We'll give you three lists with names of 30 stocks we consider to be especially outstanding now—for a variety of investment objectives, such as speculative appreciation, high current yield and long-term capital growth. We'll give you up-to-the-minute facts on the stocks most asked about. And we'll send you the latest data on any three commonly traded stocks of your choice.

All of it free and without any obligation.
