

New looks for old

At Grace Scalla's Headline Salons, hair-styles for the '80s will vary according to the mood of the wearer, said Ms. Scalla.

"There is some of what was, in other words, the classics; some of what is new, the asymmetric bob.

"Some of the sweet young styles are the fifties' look revisited. And most importantly, for art's sake, there are the future or avant garde looks."

"What was" is typified by the preppy page boy

So said Ms. Scalla as she presented one after another of the fashion looks for spring and summer hair.

One of the prime examples of Headline's version of "for art's sake" (far left) features blonde hair pulled to the side in a pony tail, shaped into a spring leaf, with leaf veins spray-painted on with silver hair color. It's worn by Lisa Burk of Birmingham.

(left) look with a ribbon band reminiscent of Dick and Jane's mother as illustrated in the once-popular reading primer it's worn by Vicki Howard of Southfield.

Putting hair in line

This asymmetric cut by Yiannis can be either sporty or elegant, depending on how it is accessorized. This type of precision cut can be highlighted with subtle color. First and foremost, the hair must be healthy.

A hairstyle for the split personality. It's part vamp, part innocence. The permed hair tumbles into shape. By Bitonti.
