Thursday April 17 1980

'Tiger Trivia' gives birth to son

Fred Smith of Southfield has done it again— and baseball trivia fanatics are enjoying every page of it.

It wasn't enough for Smith to write one book about Detroit Tiger baseball trivia, so, two years later, the ticket sales representative for the baseball fam.

This book is call "Son of Tiger Trivia," named after his first book, "Tiger Trivia."

Once again, Smith teammed with co-writer and Tiger broadcaster Ernie Harwell, and the new publication, which hit the bookstands two weeks ago, is complete with new trivia items about the Detroit baseball club.

And no item repeats with the first book.

"Every question, except one question, is on the Detroit Tigers or a Detroit player," Smith said. "It wasn't so hard to compile as it was to check and recheck (so we wouldn't repeat)."

"I wrote out half the questions and Ernie wrote the other half," Smith said. "Then we got together and had to throw out half of them because we repeated."

gether information which wouldn't conflict with the first trivia publication.

The book is now available in most book stores in the metropolitan area. It can also be ordered through the mail by sending $3 to "Son of Tiger Trivia," P.O. Box 120, Lathrup Village 48076.

A RETIREE from the American Automobile Association (AAA) in 1974, Smith's book is the third of its kind in three years. Beside the two Tiger books, Smith also teammed with retired Biltimore Oriole third baseman Brooks Robins
two winters ago and ghostwrote "Brook's Robins two winters ago and ghostwrote "Bro of Famer and Bloomfield Hills resident Al Kaline on the cover, includes such questions as "What was Lance Parrish's (the Tigers' current catcher) original position when he broke into organized baseball?" Answer: Outfield?, no Parrish broke in with Bristol in 1974 as a third baseman.

Fred Smith is following up his "Tiger Trivia" success with "Son of Tiger Trivia." (Staff photo)

Soccer club lacks experience

Express veterans must guide young talent

Almost every soccer fan knows Trevor Francis is no longer a member of the Detroit Express. However, few people are aware that Coach Ken Furphy's 1930 Express squad is minus three others who helped drive Detroit to a North American Soccer League (NASL) playoff appearance last year.

Ted MacDougall, Detroit's third-highest scorer from last season, Roger Osborne and Tony Dunne are also gone. Were trying to blend the senior players allow give the result of the country of ance last year.

Ted MacDougall, Detroit's thirdhighest scorer from last season, Roger Osborne and Tony Dunne are also gone.
Those three players, along with Francis, accounted for more than one-third of Detroit's total 1979 point production.

of Detroits total 1979 point production.
Francis, who will be spending the next couple summers in the established English league rather than on the artificial surface of the Pontiac Silverdome, tied Ketth Furphy in overall scoring last year. Each had 14 goals and eight assists for 36 points.

and eignt assists for 30 points.

MacDougall added '29 points with nine goals and 11 assists, and Osborne was the fifth-leading scorer with 17 points — three goals, 11 assists. They were all veteran players who provided the Express with a substantial amount of leadership.

of leadership.

Even though the team nucleus of Sam Oates, David Bradford, Eddie Colquhoun, et al is still infact, the Express will be a younger and more inexperienced squad than the previous two seasons. Furphy admits the team's success hinges on the rapid development of the volumer players.

with the senior players who know what to expect.

"It's just a matter of them (younger players) getting the experience, being as competitive as they can and keeping organized," he said.

organized," he said.

THE EXPRESS split their first two games, losing 1-0 to Seattle, and defeating Memphis 4-2 at home last weekend. In a nutshell, the games typified Detroit's overall personality. The offensive deficiency was exposed on the road seattle. Against Memphis, the youlful front large of the power of the

Detroit Express Coach Ken Furphy (back, left) watches newcomer Patrico Margetic (left) and Sam Oates (right) execute a drill. (Staff photo by David Frank)

State's weather spoils school's baseball plans

Oakland University's baseball team is re-luctantly learning there is some truth to the seasonal axiom "April showers bring May flowers."

The Dirk Dieters-coached Pioneers have thus far had 17 cancellations either via rainout or snowut. Tuesday's doubleheader against Hillsdale, which was scheduled to open Oakland's Great Lakes intercollegatic Athletic Conference (GLIAC) race, was the latest casuality.

White Dieters has nothing against blossoming flowers, he would just as soon find some dry land to play baseball.

"You certainly lose all your sharpness when you cart play ball," said Dieters, who coaches with his son, Dirk Dieters, Jr. "We haven't even been able to practice that much outside, which burts us even more. "It think we have a good enough squad to win our conference this year if we can only get a chance to play some games," he said.

"It hurts our pitching the most, because it will take at least two or three outings now for them to get their rhythm."

Oakland — ranked among the state's top 10 teams by Michigan college coaches — has a 4-2-1 overall record. Its last game was an international affair against the Republic of China (Talwan) college all-star team last Friday which resulted in a 3-0 defeat.

In the past four years under Dieters' leadership, the Pioneers have won one GLI-AC title, finished second twice and third once. The fifth-year coach believes his experienced Pioneers can dethrone defending GLIAC champion Grand Valley.

The Pioneers, who have six returning lettermen in their starting lineup, have six games — all doublheaders — in three days. Oakland will face Grand Valley tomorrow, and Ferris State Saturday on the road and Northwood Institute Sunday at home (all games will be played at 1 p.m.).

"We have six tough games coming up, and it's important that we play them," said Dieters.

"Last year we finished second to Grand Valley, but we never actually played them because we got rained out each time we were scheduled. It's just too tough to make

"But we have a good team this year, and I think we can get a bld into the NCAA Division II tournament if we can win our league. Our first goal is to win the conference, and then we'll think about our tournament bid."

The Pioneers are a seasoned team at almost every position. And, Dieters said, his 1980 group may just be the best hitting team in the conference.

(Continued on page 2B)

Meet pointless for area teams

A fan would have had to look quickly to spot a Farmington-area athlete in the Spartnan Relays for girls last Saturday in Michigan State University's Jenison Fieldhouse. Farmington Our Lady of Mercy and Farmington Our Lady of Mercy and Farmington Harrison each had a few girls entered. None of the local athletes performed well enough to score. The other schools — West Bloomfield, Farmington High and North Farmington — didn't even enter.

night and worth rammigum — until even enter.

Mercy, which has become a girls' track power under coach Bob Kirkland, failed to score at the Spartan Relays for the first time since the sport was introduced at Mer-cy four years ago. This year's team is hampered by injuries, according to Kirk-land.

One of Mercy's best runs of the day came when freshman Micah Sullivan finished the 880-yard run with a time of 2:37. Junior Curran Sullivan, Micah's sister, turned in a 12:51 in the two-mile run:

"I was pleased to see what our freshmen were doing," Kirkland said. "For example, our two sprint teams didn't do well in terms of time, but I was satisfied because they're made up of one senior and three freshmen.

"So I was happy that they just got through the race without dropping the baton, or without being too shook up by just being at MSU with thousands of people around them."

COACH MARK Timmins' Harrison team failed to score, although its sprint medley relay (Beth Dilley, Linda Tremonti, Jen-nifer Tompson and Deedee Dowell) did shave a second off the school record with a shave a second off the school record with a 2:01.0.

Another Harrison runner, Jayne Evans, recorded a 2:37.0 in the open half mile.

"We don't take kids (to the Spartan Relays) unless they stay around for the practices over Easter break," Timmins said. "So some of one better runners didn't go."

West Bloomfield coach Lee Averill elected to keep his team home so it could prepare for its crucial Greater Oskinat Activites League dual meet at home against Rochester High on Thursday.

Flint Northern, the defending champion, won this year's Spartan Relays Championathy, socing 25 points to Detroit Muniford's 30. Detroit Chadsey took third with 24 points, and Rochester and Pontiac Central tied for fourth place with 18.

Almee Landry of Rochester finished second in the 830 run with a time of 2:24.33.