

Diamond Automation names vice president

James M. Nield has been appointed Vice President and General Manager of the Machinery/Systems Division, Diamond Automation, Diamond International Corporation.

Nield, based in Farmington, will continue to be responsible for the Farmington and Montevallo, Ala., manufacturing operations plus the Canton, Mich., research center.

He also assumes responsibility for the company's European operations in Bremen, West Germany. After joining Diamond in 1966, he served as a sales engineer. After a series of promotions with increased responsibilities in sales and marketing, Nield was appointed general manager of Diamond Automation in 1976.

Under his direction the manufacturer of poultry cage systems and egg packaging machinery has expanded its facilities greatly and tripled its sales. A 35-percent plant expansion of the Farmington operation is presently under construction. This was preceded by the construction of a new Research Center in Canton, in 1979.

Diamond Automation is the largest employer in Farmington Hills and part of a major paper and forest products company.

JAMES NIELD

Nield has served on the board of directors of the Southeastern Poultry and Egg Association and as co-chairman of the association's exhibitor's committee. He is a member of the Northville Historical Society, First Presbyterian Church, and President of the Northville Swim Club. He lives in Northville.

Systems director named by AAA

Joseph Chattinger of Farmington Hills has been named director of Systems Development at Automobile Club of Michigan.

Chattinger, 37, joined Auto Club in 1966 as a computer programmer. He became systems and programming supervisor in 1968, general supervisor of member and policyholder services (MAPS) in 1972, MAPS assistant manager in 1974, and collection manager later in 1974.

He is a past president of the Association for Systems Management.

A native Detroit, Chattinger attended Wayne State University, the Detroit Institute of Technology and the International Data Processing Institute.
