

Masonry Institute names structural engineer

Paul H. Jones, 52, has been named structural engineer of the Masonry Institute of Michigan, based in Farmington.

Jones will be responsible for providing masonry design and construction assistance to architects and structural engineers.

He is a registered professional engineer in Michigan and Ohio. He holds a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from the University of Michigan.

For the past two years, Jones has been an associate civil engineer for the city of Detroit. Prior to that, he served as an instructor in civil engineering at Northwest Technical College in Archbold, Ohio. His background also includes work as a consulting and project engineer in Traverse City and as city engineer in Traverse City and Cadillac.

The Masonry Institute is a nonprofit organization dedicated to the promotion of quality masonry construction in Michigan.

AAA names vice chairman

Farmington Hills resident William M. Skillman, a past president of Automobile Club of Michigan, has been elected vice chairman of the 21-million-member American Automobile Association.

Skillman, senior partner in the public accounting firm of Skillman, Ziesch & Co. in Troy, succeeds Thomas W. von Kuster, a Minneapolis investment company executive who was elected chairman of the board of AAA.

Traditionally, the vice chairman serves two one-year terms before being elevated to chairman.

Skillman has been a director of Automobile Club of Michigan since 1967 and was its president in 1975-77. He is in his second consecutive three-year term as an AAA director.

A native Detroit, Skillman attended the University of Michigan and was graduated from Wayne State University. He is a director of the First State Bank of Charlevoix and a board member of Brighton Hospital.

GM exec discusses future transportation

Tomorrow's transportation systems will be the topic 7:30 Oct. 21 at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Lloyd E. Reuss, director of engineering for the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors Corp., is the featured speaker for the annual arts and science lecture at the Southfield college. His presentation, entitled "Tomorrow's Personal Mobility," is offered in the science building auditorium. All LIT students, staff members and members of the public may attend.

Thieves use key

Ring Co. reported the theft of $129 worth of Michigan State University football tickets. The tickets are for sections 125-26, seats 33-36 for the Saturday game against Wisconsin, the Nov. 1 game against Ohio State and the Nov. 22 game against Iowa.

The Hiram Walker office was among those firms which escaped large losses through the theft. The office reported a missing cigarette lighter and a printed with the firm's logo. The lighter is valued at $2.

Reuss talk will center around the engineering of the future and how it will affect modes of transportation, an LIT spokesperson said. He is expected to discuss the smaller, more fuel efficient cars which will be appearing in the coming years to fit the energy conservation needs of the country.

A graduate of University of Missouri, Reuss joined General Motors in 1959 as an experimental engineer. He transferred to the Chevrolet Division in 1960 as an engineer in transmission development and then held several positions of increasing responsibility. He was named director of engineering in 1978.
