

Alcohol's challenge is conference topic

Families troubled by alcohol abuse are the focus of a free conference at Madonna College as part of a statewide effort in November to increase public knowledge on substance and alcohol abuse.

"The Challenge of Alcoholism to the Power of Love in the Family," is scheduled for Nov. 13 in the Activities Center from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. Madonna College is located at Schoolcraft and Levan in Livonia.

Open to the professionals and the public at no charge, the conference will feature small group discussions on alcoholism and lectures by three leading authorities on family relationships. Michigan Alcohol Awareness Week is Nov. 9 through 15.

James F. Crowley, president of Community Intervention Inc., a alcohol treatment clinic in Minneapolis will lead off the conference with an informal discussion on alcoholism and the family at 2 p.m.

Dr. Paul F. Lacey, a professor of English Language and Literature at Earlham College in Richmond, Ind., will follow the dinner break with a 7 p.m. lecture on "The Power of Love in the Family." The author of a book on contemporary American poetry, Dr. Lacey is also the keynote speaker for Madonna's on-going film and lecture series "Exploration of Family Values." The series, which examines changing family roles, is concurrently scheduled on Nov. 13 with the alcohol conference, and is also open to the public free of charge.

An overview of the dynamics of living in an alcoholic-stricken family will conclude the conference with an 8 p.m. dress on "Children of Alcoholics," by social worker Claudia Black. Black is a respected authority on the subject of parental alcoholism and is the author of a children's book on alcoholism, "My Dad Loves Me, My Dad Has a Disease."

"The Challenge of Alcoholism to the Power of Love in the Family" is sponsored by the Office of Alcohol Education at Madonna College, in conjunction with the Greater Detroit Area Chapter of the National Council on Alcoholism, and the Michigan Council for the Humanities.

For more information, contact Madonna College at 591-5078 or 591-5000. Participants may attend any one or all lectures during the conference.
