

Falcon cagers come close

By BRAD EMONS

In the midst of a long winning streak, Plymouth Canton girls' basketball coach Mike McCauley was begging for relief competition.

He got all he wanted Tuesday night as his Chiefs held off stubborn Farmington, 53-50, in a non-league finale for both teams.

"The end of the game was a close shave for the coach," joked McCauley afterward.

Canton finished its regular season with an 18-2 record. It was also the team's 17th consecutive win. McCauley's players celebrated the win by spraying shaving cream all over the gym. Since it was McCauley's birthday, he seemed to be the prime target.

"This is the worst shooting we've had from the foul line and out," said McCauley. "We seemed a little tight. Maybe we were too high for the game."

Farmington center Stacy Green was too high for the Chiefs. The 6-foot-3 junior blocked a dozen shots and led all scorers with 21 points.

She led a fourth quarter comeback along with freshman Mary Ann Kuhnlein, just called up from the junior varsity.

Canton blew a 13-point third quarter advantage as Farmington, refusing to fold, came roaring back in the fourth quarter.

A short bank shot by Sue Carruthers with 2:18 remaining pulled Farmington to within one, 51-50.

The Falcons, who committed numerous turnovers in the first half, settled down in the final two periods to give Canton all it could handle.

Farmington had two chances to pull ahead in the final two minutes, but bad shot selection and costly mistakes enabled the Chiefs to hold on.

Pearly Cunningham and Jean Timlin, each whom paced Canton with 14 points each, hit crucial free throws down the stretch to put Farmington away.

The Falcons were once again hampered by poor ball handling and passing for the first 20 minutes of play.

"Their press hurt us," said Lekoivish. "It's been a problem. I told the girls we had to cut down on our turnovers. In the second half our guards were bringing up better."
