Former Iranian hostage Joseph Subic Jr. is gearing up to cash in on his 444 days in captivity.
The 24-year-old intends to leave the U.S. Army. He's considering book and job offers. And he may enter politics.
"I have an option to get out and I'm going to. Time going to request a lieuten-ant's commission as an Army reserve officer." Subic said in an exclusive inant's commission as an Army reserve officer." Subs salt in an ecolusive in-terview with the Observer & Eccentric. "I have received numerous offers to write a book about my experiences during captivity, and I'm in the process of considering which offer to accept." He already has bired an attorney to ne-gotiate a book contract. "Twe also received several job of-fers, which I can't talk about now," Su-bic continued. "But let's say it'd be foolish of me not to take advantage of them.

them.
"I'm also considering a political career. "I have received quiet offers from politicians of both political parties to run for the state Legislature or a local office."

STILL GUARDED because of his sta-STILL GUARDED because of his sta-tus as an Army staff sergeant, Subic talked Friday night for the first time about his fears for his family's safety in Redford Township during his captiv-lity, the "professional" beatings im-posed by his captives and his reaction to the millitants" spy film" portraying him as an American agent. Just the professional beating him as an American agent. Just the professional beating him as an American agent. Just the professional beating him as an American agent. Just the professional beating him as a first him as a first him and the professional beating him as a first him as a firs family and to put letters into the mail box, he said.

Subic also admitted to being subject-do to Russian roulette and mock executions along with other hostages. He said he still experiences stomach pains from physical beatings at the bands of his captors.

The interrogators were very professional. They punched me under my risk, but their beatings left no marks on my body. After being released, doctor in Wiesbaden (West Germany) found I had a tender stomach and I still experience stomach pains, "Subic said. He also developed a bleeding ulcer as a result of his mental and physical treatment. But he refused medical aid while in capitality.

treatment. But he refused medical aid while in captivity,
"I didn't want to give the militants an opportunity to turn any medical treatment into another propaganda show-and-tell film to the highest American (television) network bidder," he said.

said.

Subic said his return home went 'better than expected.' But after returning home and seeing the public celebrations for the former hostages, Subic said, he went through a period of depression, "trying to settle into a nor-

SUBIC SPOKE bitterly about the manner in which American television covered the hostage crisis. He also demonstrated the first objects of the agent on a filmed segment. Subic said the film was prepared and sold by the militants to U.S. television networks.

"The militants spliced used filmed footage of me taken on various occasions during my captivity and one of

The militants spliced used filmed footage of me taken on various occasions during my capitivity and one of them faked my votice in the film where I supposedly admitted to the militants as being a CIA agent, I such that the summariant of the militants as being a CIA agent, I such that the summariant of the militants as being a CIA agent, I such that the summariant of the militants as being a CIA agent, I such that the militants as being a CIA agent, I such that the militants of the manufactured or staged by the militants of the militants of the militants of the militants and the manufactured or staged by the militants of the militants (A. agent, I would have been arrested for a military court martial. But there has been and there will be no military investigation relating to my actions in fram.

"It aggravates me that the American networks bid on the films made by the militants, knowing that it was all staged for propaganda upropagands to the American people."

"I read an article in an English newspaper criticizing the American relevision media for supporting the militants' cause, giving them money for the films and televising their propaganda to the American people. The militants' cause, giving them money of the films and televising their propaganda to the American people. The control of the militants' cause, giving them money of the films and televising their propaganda upropaganda to the American people. The control of the militants' cause, giving them money of the films and televising their propaganda upropaganda to the American people. The control of the control of mal life again."

Each of the former hostages has a personal psychiatrist assigned, he said, and will be evaluated at a future reunilon.

ALTHOUGH LITTLE has been said about intelligence operations at the U.S. embassy in Tehran, Subic hinted there is much yet untold.

Subic said while in Iran he was assigned to the Defense Intelligence Agency of the Department of Defense as an administrative specialist, a position he described as being intelligence-related.

BILL BRESLER/sta

Former hostage Joseph Subic Jr. talks for the first time about his experience in Iran and his plans for the future.

diplomatic pouch system by a pro-Khomeini courier, Manoog said.

"That letter and two or three others which came later were not threatening in nature but derogatory to the former sottages and sympathetic toward the militant cause." Manoog continued.

"We decided not to take any chances and I ordered a 24-hour surveillance of the Subic house for about two months.
After the letters stopped coming, we had patrolmen watching the home during the day to handle any press prolems, and we kept a marked patrol car, without a patrolman, in the Subies

Subic said he doesn't have any particular political affiliation and will driveway at night." Meter the letters stopped coming, we mad patrolmen watching the home during the day to handle any press probeing, and we kept a marked patrol car, without a patrolman, in the Subics 'triveway at night."

SUBIC SAID he was advised by the trive and the substitution of without a patroln driveway at night."

Apr. 25 art market offers toys, trinkets and tapestries

The annual Westacres Artist Market in West Bloomfield is full of surprises. The April 25 art fair covers a wide range of artistic media and always manages to provide some unexpected treats.

One of those surprises is batik artist striking colors and unexpected layerings of subject matter," says co-chairwoman Jaqueline Brewer.

Or Pete Landino's wooden toys. "He lives in Westacres, so you know he'll be at the artist market, but you never know what to expect from Pete," Mrs. Brewer adds. "His wooden puzzles delight everyone, but last year the kids went wild over his carved hero pins."

This year his newest toy, Old Lady in a Shoe, should draw a lot of attention.

An exclusive line of Landino's unusual playthings is carried by the shops at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

the Detroit Institute of Arts.
The mart is slated for Saturday,
April 25, Starting at 10 a.m. and ending around 5 p.m. at Westacres clubhouse, located south of Commerce Road east of Union Lake Road.

THE REAL treat of the art fair is the return of several of Michigan's most prestigious artists.

More than 35 artists will show their wares and sell jewelry, prints, photography, ceramics, batik, pottery, leaded glass, weaving and wood carving.

Returning this year for their 10th show are Russ and Susan Bolt, who own and operate the Grange Hall Pottery and Print Shop in Charlevoix.

Their blue-faced pots will be dis-played along with other ceramics with shimmering glazes.

Another returning artist is weaver Julie Stowe from Walled Lake. The fair, in its 13th year, started 45 years ago when the first residents moved into the area now called Westa-

"It was so desolate," recalls one ear-"It was so desolate," recaits one ear-ly resident, Unita Llewelyn, "and miles from anywhere. The houses were so ugly that nobody planned to stay. Ev-eryone figured they'd move somewhere nicer as soon as they could afford to."

BUT MANY did stay, remodeling their cinderblock houses, developing their own commuter bus service, credit union, newspaper and library. "It was this strong sense of community spirit that fostered the idea of an rt fair back in 1959," says Mrs. Brewer. "And we've been doing it every year since then."

When their old clubhouse was torn down, residents scouted around for another location for two years.

INSIDE

BY LOUISE OKBUTSKY

(teers.)
Helping Hands, sponsored by the Farmington-Arra Parent Teacher Association, involves displaying a card in a window of your home identifying it as a safe retige for school children in trouble.
More helping hands are needed because of several attempted abuctions of school children throughout the district. All incidents have occurred in the hast few months.

past few months

past few months.
Police officers from Farmington and Farmington Hills will conduct the training sessions, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 14, and 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 15, at the Farmington Hills library on 12 Mile Road, and April 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the Farmington branch library on Liberty Street. Each presentation is an hour and a half.
For more information about helping hands, call Sandy Inch at 474-4464.

BIO SCIENCE LABORATORIES wants to spread a little knowledge.
On Sunday, April 12, the lab in Farmington Hills dudstrial park will open its doors for public viewing of work done in the medical areas of immunology, chemistry, radioisotopes and toxicology.
Slaff members will conduct tours from 2 p.m. to be m.

5 stat members win conduct ours from 2 p.m. of 5 p.m. The open house coincides with the fifth anniver-sary of the lab and National Medical Laboratory Week (April 12-18). The lab is at 24469 Indoplex Circle, near Grand River and Drake.

SPRING INTO SPRING with a YMCA plass or two. To honor the Y's first birthday at 20100 Farmington Road, anyone who signs up for a special interest class will get a coupon worth $3 off second class. Classes begin the week of April 27 and run for even weeks. Registration opens April 13. For more formation call 553-4020.

RALPH NADER, America's favorite con-RALPH NADER, America's favorite con-numer advocate, will speak at the annual donor funcheon at Adat Shalom Synagogue, 29901 Middle-bett, Farmington Hills on May 4.
Tickets are now on sale for the lunch/talk at $18.
Publicity person Ann Benderoff promises Nader Mill talk about a variety of scintillating topics, but for automobile safety.
For reservations, call Mrs. Betsy Winkelman at 626-3826 or Mrs. Arlene Klein at 851-9603.

DANIEL SCHORR, one of America's most recognized journalists, is also coming to town schorr will talk about "The Media and Democracy" at 8.30 pm. on April 20 at the Birmingham Temple. Schorr is perhaps best/remembered for his involvement, in the Watergale and CIA investigations during the Nixon and Ford administrations, when his name was among the "top twenty" names on Nixon's enemies list. Admission is $5, tickets are available in advance and at the door. For information, call Mary Lewis

FANTASYLAND came to Flanders in FANTAGE LATO Came to Frances in Farmington yesterday. Christopher Columbus, George Washington, Bet-sy Ross and Abraham Lincoln were among the stars in the elementary school play presented by second- and third-graders from Mrs. Shirley Northwark elase Northrop's class.

Media specialist Jean Rice coordinated the "Who

Am I' play.

Guests, including School Supt. Lewis Schulman, were challenged to guess not only who the actors were, but in what library book they were the main

It was all part of National Library Week.

SCHOOL STAMP CLUBS in search of guest speakers can tap the natural resources of Carol and Dave Mundorf, owners of America's Stamp Stop West, Il Mile and Middlebelt. The Mundorfs are willing to visit school stamp clubs free of charge to discuss stamp collecting. Call 474-4460.

A SALUTE CONCERT to Temple Beth El, featuring Leonard Bernstein's Chichester Psalms, is set for Sunday, April 12, at 3:30 p.m.
The concert will be presented by the Wayne State University Choral Union and Orchestra under the direction of Dennis J. Tini, of Farmington. Admission is free. The temple is at 1400 North Telegraph at 14 Mile.

POP AND HOP are on top Friday night at the Franklin School gymnasium. A benefit for community use of the Franklin School features a pop concert presented by the Franklin Village Band and a Bump Hop dance to the music of Bill Ellison's Village Aires. It's 12:50 a person. For information, call 626-2385, or 855-2998.

CPR class set

Northwest Post 190, The American Legion is sponsoring a CPR seminar, Cardiopulmonary Recuscitation and Relmich Anti-choixing, at the post home on Nine Mile Road at Middlehlet at 10:30 a.m., April 11.

Jimmle Watts is chairman of this community

Jimmle Watts is chairman or this communary service program.

There is no charge for the training program. The public is invited to attend and to learn these li-fesaving techniques. Free coffee will be served. Jim Johnson, a certified CPR instructor, will be in charge of the training program.

Easter's girls love dressing up... and showing off their shiny Little Capezios It's new-shoe season...and every little girl would skip a mile for these sweet steppers from LITTLE CAPEZIO. Adorably styled with a scallop-stitched, perforated front and ankle-strapped back with teardrop cutouts. In payy or bone lenther-look on a suede sole for girls' sizes 12½ to 3, $28, and for growing girls' sizes 5 to 8 from MISS CAPEZIO, $31. In Children's Shoes, at Downtown, Northland, Eastland, and the second hudson's