Lunches Stay At '67 Level

There is one item that hasn't been hit by the cost of living increases!

That's the cost of lunches for the school children in the Farmington schools.

Adults eating in the schools will have to pay more this year, however.

If the student brown-bags his lunch and just wants to buy milk he will also have to pay more than last year. The Board of Education set the various prices Monday night.

Cost of lunches remains at last year's level of 35 cents for elementary children and 40 cents for junior high and senior high students.

Milk costs have gone from two to three cents for white milk and three to four cents for chocolate milk. (The chocolate milk is sold only on the secondary-school level.) Adult lunches have been increased by a nickel. A lunch with a beverage is now 55 cents, while if you don't want a beverage the cost is 50 cents.

Milk (both white and chocolate) and coffee costs have stayed at 10 cents.

Cost of adult lunch hike was laid to the requirement that the schools pay state sales tax on all food service to adults.

Must Collect Wind-Blown Litter

Farmington Township has adopted a refuse ordinance aimed at eliminating the flow of litter at commercial establishments.

The ordinance requires every commercial business to keep and maintain a garbage receptacle large enough to hold one week's accumulation of refuse.

It also holds businessmen responsible to clean up litter blown 'on their sites and to collect refuse blown from their establishments to their neighbors' lots.

Violation of the ordinance will be a misdemeanor.

Teachers Expected To Return To Desks

Although final ratification of the teachers contract is not expected until Sept. 9, Farmington's teachers are expected to show up full force when school opens Wednesday.

A salary schedule has been agreed upon by the negotiating teams but must be ratified by the teachers and Board of Education before taking effect.

Last Monday, Aug. 26, the school board refrained from ratifying the contract choosing instead to wait until the teachers ratification vote was taken.

The proposed salary schedules will be picked up by teachers during the day Tuesday at their respective schools. A meeting will be held Tuesday at Farmington Junior High School starting at 7:15 p.m. with teachers taking a vote on returning to work.

Later in the week, probably on Thursday, teachers will gather again for a ratification vote. If the schedule prevails, the board would then be in a position to ratify the contract at their Sept. 9 meeting.
