

James Jerger will be playing his trade at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College by teaching children animation.

Animation is taught

Cartooning and Animation will be offered through a series of enrichment short courses for students in K-12 and the academically gifted and talented this winter at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College. James Jerger, a graphic artist and multi-media expert from Wixom, will instruct the course. Jerger currently is working on his own illustration and cartooning projects while studying motion-picture art.

In Animation, for grades seven through 12, students will see how Mickey Mouse was born and trace the history of animation to modern times. Projects will include cartooning, cel painting and stop motion/optical art.

Cartooning, for grades three through eight, will stress the drawing of cartoon faces, bodies, expressions and situations as well as caricatures and animated cartoons.

Animation will meet Thursday evenings 6:30-8:30 p.m. beginning February 4. The two-hour course in cartooning is scheduled to meet on Saturdays starting at 9 a.m. beginning Jan. 30. Minimal fees are charged.
