Future of family discussed at Mercy

"Southeast Michigan, Today and Tomorrow: Problems and Prospects" is the theme of the monthly prayer breakfast at Mercy College of Detroit on Wednesday, Feb. 17.

Edward Hustoles, Director of Planning for the Southeast Michigan Council of Government (SEMCOG), is the speaker.

Hustoles will focus on the problems this area faces due to the changing nature of the family, unemployment and differences between the city and the suburbs. He will also examine the prospects for the future. As a representative of a regional planning agency, he will present an overview of the metropolitan and surrounding areas, focusing on regional approaches and concerns.

"Mr. Hustoles is very involved in social justice. He is very interested in the city and in the church," said Brigit Johnson of Mercy's Campus Ministry.

The Prayer Breakfast will be 7:30-8:30 a.m. in the Mercy Conference Center. A donation of $2 per person; or $1.50 for students and senior citizens includes a continental breakfast. Call Mercy College at 592-6205 or 592-6000 for information or reservations.
