

Local experts speak at Dearborn Inn show

Three local antiques experts will be among the speakers at The Olde Inn Antique Show at the Dearborn Inn this weekend.

They are Michael Hall, head of sculpture department, Cranbrook Academy of Art; William Lyman, antiquarian, architect and teacher; and H. George Bickelmann, antique dealer, appraiser and lecturer.

The show is scheduled for 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. There will be 42 exhibitors from 12 states, many of whom haven't exhibited in this area previously.

There will be a preview reception this evening 7-10 p.m. Tickets, available at the door, are $12.50 per person, including refreshments.

The seminar schedule is: Michael Hall, "American Folk Art - Expanding Perspectives," noon Friday; Charles Muller, managing editor, Ohio Antique Review, "The Connoisseurship of Shaker," 3 p.m. Friday; Diana Van Kolken, editor, The Shaker Messenger, noon Saturday; William Lyman, "Furniture: Fakes and Reproductions - How Do You Know It's Real?," 3 p.m. Saturday; H. George Bickelmann, "Dollars and Sense in Collecting Antiques," 2 p.m. Sunday.

The show was originated and is managed by Eric C. and Carol J. Nordell, dealers, collectors and instructors at Greenfield Village.

They have said their show is oriented toward the quality-minded collector who is interested in investment grade antiques. "The majority of the antiques exhibited are required to be at least 100 years old, authenticity guaranteed."

There is a charge for both the show and the lectures. The Dearborn Inn is at 20301 Oakwood Blvd., across from Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum.

Easter eggs, Ukrainian style

Joan Kuzinski's Ukrainian Easter eggs will go up for sale when Christ Child Society stages its Mini-Mart and luncheon Wednesday, March 31 in Detroit Golf Club. The Farmington Hills resident's craft will be among dozens of handmade boutique items and gourmet treats offered during sale hours from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. There is no admission charge. Reservations for the noon luncheon, followed by a B. Siegel fashion show are $16, available by calling Mrs. John Connell, 649-0226.

VAAL begins spring term

Classes and workshops for adults and youth offered by Visual Arts Association of Livonia (VAAL) begin the week of March 29 in Jackson Center, 32025 Lyndon.

Classes are offered in oil and acrylics, watercolor, drawing, life drawing and sculpture.

Robert Wilbert offers a watercolor workshop, and Edie Joppich offers an landscape-painting class.

Registration information is given by calling Elizabeth Hill, 464-0282.

Nursing takes enrollments

Farmington Presbyterian Nursery School located at 26165 Farmington Road is now taking enrollments for the 1982-83 school year. There is a choice of two- or three-week sessions. Inquiries will be taken by Cathie Johnston, 553-3658. The school's annual open house is 2-4 p.m. April 4.

Mystery thriller

Joel Grossman takes the part of Uncle Julian and Laurie Smalls plays Constance Blackwood in "We Have Always Lived in the Castle," a mystery thriller produced by Quaker Valley Theatre. Showtime is 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and 7:30 p.m. Sundays, March 26-28 and April 2-24, in Farmington Masonic Temple. Tickets are on sale now in Farmington-Farmington Hills Chamber of Commerce and will be held by calling 474-3440. Group rates are available.
