OU offers courses to help homeowners

Oakland University is offering several classes this spring to help homeowners save energy, restore older houses and get tax breaks.

Registration information about all course may be obtained by calling the OU's Continuing Education office at 377-3120 from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Registration is underway for a non-credit four-week evening course beginning April 15 on "Taking Advantage of Tax Breaks." The course will show people how to set up a tax savings plan for 1982. John Muschinski, a Troy financial consultant, will teach the course on the OU campus in Rochester.

People who want to learn about estate planning can enroll in a course aimed at large and small estates for $15 each or at $20 per couple. The one-day seminar runs 7-10:30 p.m. Thursday on campus.

For the homeowner interested in economizing, courses will be offered beginning this week in solar water-heater fabrication, do-it-yourself energy saving measures and a practical approach of adapting or restoring older dwellings.

IN ADDITION, courses will be offered in the career fields of paralegal and plastics technicians. They will begin the weeks of April 6 and 12, respectively. Diploma programs are offered in both areas. The paralegal program also is available for credit to Oakland University undergraduates.

Other updating courses for managers, beginning April 12, include Computer Literacy for the Non-Computer Manager, Survival of Michigan Business, A Workshop for Managers: Crucial Issues in American Business and Industry and Management Update for the '80s, which begin the week of April 12.

At Seasholm High School, Birmingham, four-week courses "Diamonds and Gemstones" will be taught by Arthur J. Lake and "Condominium Operation: In Depth" will be instructed by Robert M. Meiner. Both are Birmingham residents, expert in their respective areas of gemstone identification and investment and solving problems encountered in condominium operation, respectively.

A PAIR of noncredit courses providing a practical approach to saving energy bills and restoring older dwellings for modern living will be offered beginning Wednesday by the Oakland University Division of Continuing Education.

Such energy-saving measures as super-insulation, energy audits and building improvements for energy conservation will be discussed for owners of homes, business and real estate in the course "Save on Energy Bills."

Tuition is $59 for the six-week course, to be conducted 7-10 p.m. Wednesdays, by Pontiac vocational director and residential builder, M.S. Prottegeier.

"Restoring Old Homes," a practical approach for those who want to adapt older dwellings to modern living or to preserve historic homes, will be presented by builder Gustave A. Renner II. Actual rehabilitation and restoration projects will be pictured in slides and movies.

The eight-week noncredit course will be held 7:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesdays. The $65 tuition includes materials.

OCC schedules talk on myths

The Orchard Ridge Campus Community Continuum is sponsoring a lecture on myths and myth-making at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday, April 7.

Dean John Gutowski of St. Mary's College will be the speaker. The lecture will be held in Room B-104. It is open to the public at no charge.

The Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College is at 27055 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills.
