

Sprucing up museum grounds

Thirty five members of Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, from Michigan-Dearborn Mission, formed a work party this week to clean up the grounds and gardens around the new Farmington Historical Museum. The goal of the 35 elders and sisters was to lend the museum's garden auxiliaries their helping hands to have the grounds ready for the museum's dedication ceremonies May 22-23. They are here from many states doing mission work for the church. Elder Robert Staker from California and Elder Vern Bolinger from Washington haul logs (upper left) wielding the rakes around the rose arbor (above) are Elder Paul Furner and Elder Tom Kuhlmann, both from Utah. Working on the wooded parts of the grounds (left) are Sister Lori Johnson and Elder Greg Bryant, both from Utah, and Sister Sandi Willis from California.
