

table talk

KOGY'S Restaurant in Troy is collecting logos from Michigan companies. Logos will be hung throughout the restaurant, to acquaint out-of-town visitors to the Grand Prix race with metropolitan-Detroit businesses.

Kogy's is on the lower level of the Top of Troy building in Troy.

VICTORIA Station restaurants have a new luncheon menu, with specialties for diners on a budget, on a diet or in a hurry.

Four entrees are billed as "Inflation Fighting Lunches" and priced at $2.95 or $3.65. These include artichoke and spinach quiche, soup or cheeseburger with cottage fries, baked rainbow trout and teriyaki chicken.

The "Calorie Conscious" may select from broiled chicken breast or baked rainbow trout with tomato slices and cottage cheese, for $3.75, or a do-it-yourself salad, cottage cheese and low-calorie dressings, at $3.25.

Luncheon Express is a designation indicated by a train engine next to certain menu items. This assures that diners can order, be served and on their way within a half-hour, if desired.

These offerings include enchilada pie, roast prime rib of beef, and the Californian (stuffed jumbo baked potato), as well as quiche and soup, cheeseburger, and chicken breast.

Prime rib, which made Victoria Station famous, is priced at $7.95 on the luncheon menu.

Victoria Stations are mostly housed in renovated railroad cars, throughout the country and in Michigan at 2355 Northwestern Highway, Southfield, and 1475 W. Big Beaver, Troy.

SSSPUD, as its name implies, is an eating spot devoted to the glories of the baked potato.

The fast-food restaurant starts with a one-pound-plus baked Idaho potato. To this, the diner can add a choice of topping, selecting from a dozen or more on the menu (38 toppings are rotated). Plain toppings, sour cream combinations, gourmet cheese combinations and hot toppings are available, for a variety of prices from 99 cents to $2.97 for beef stroganoff.

A dozen different "Muffin Man" muffins also are served daily, from 35 alternating choices.

SsspuD is operated by the innovative Julius Young, who created Jiffy Pop and "Hot Sam" Soft Pretzels and runs a Birmingham art gallery. The restaurant seating 48 customers is at Northland Center in Southfield.

English satire to be screened

Lynn Redgrave, Colin Blakely and Jim Dale will star in "The National Health," a 1975 English satire to be shown by Detroit Film Theatre at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

General admission tickets at $2 ($1.50 for seniors) and DPT's 10-ticket discount coupon books at $15 are available through the museum ticket office (832-2730) and at the door.

Adapted from the successful stage play, "The National Health" is a comic portrait of a bleak East End (London) hospital.
