A PERSONAL APPEARANCE AND DEMONSTRATION
BY WILTON ARMETALE CRAFTSMAN

Friday, June 11, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.,
6:30 to 8:30 p.m., Birmingham

Using a method dating back to early history, you will see Wilton molder, Pat Sterner, utilize special hand-tools, sand and molten metal. After making a sand mold from a master pattern, the impression is filled with molten metal. The sand is removed after the molten metal has cooled and solidified to reveal the casting. Wilton Armatale dinnerware and gift items are a fusion of ten metals that resembles old pewter but is more durable and non-toxic. You will see how each piece is an expression of the molder's skill in working with raw materials.
