

Incumbents re-elected

Pappas, Hawthorne OCC winners

Two new trustees and two veterans will join the Oakland Community College Board of Trustees when it meets June 24 as a result of Monday's election.

Edward H. Pappas, 34, a Farmington Hills attorney, will be sworn in for a four-year term. He replaces his brother, Richard, who resigned to take a job at Jackson Community College. Pappas topped a field of five.

Elizabeth Hawthorne, 38, a University of Michigan doctoral candidate and education consultant from Birmingham, was elected to a two-year term, replacing Gordon Henderson, who had been appointed to a vacancy but did not seek election.

Incumbents Suzanne Reynolds, 40, of West Bloomfield, was elected to a second six-year term. Chairman Earl Anderson, 68, of Madison Heights, who has served on the OCC board since the college was organized in 1964, also won a new six-year term.

HERE ARE unofficial results from Monday's voting:

"Six-year term — Reynolds, former teacher and current board vice chairman, 15,865; Anderson, labor consultant, 13,019; William Condon, Clarkston school principal, 9,537; Antonia Sanchez-Murphy, Pontiac school psychologist, 5,298; Adam S. Karibidis, Birmingham architect, 4,754.

"Four-year term — Pappas, 6,660; Barbara J. Willing, Royal Oak secretarial service operator and former OCC trustee, 6,157; Richard Corey, Farmington Hills businessman, 5,929; Helen B. Cost, Royal Oak engineer, 3,998; and Irene Komer, OCC student from Farmington Hills, 3,187.

Two-year term — Hawthorne, 18,859; William R. Sinischo, steel company account executive from Pleasant Ridge, 6,441.

OCC CONTINUES to have five present or former educators among its seven members.

Those elected Monday join Sandra Ritter, a teacher from Waterford; David Hackett, a teacher from Rochester; and Margaret MacTavish, a Macomb Community College administrator from Birmingham, on the board.

The four-year term was the biggest battleground. It opened up only days before the filing deadline but drew a crowd of entries. Willing was ruled off the ballot by college officials for a shortage of petition signatures, but she was reinstated after winning a court fight.

No other community college issues were on Monday's ballot.

Community college trustees are elected in even-numbered years at the same elections as kindergarten-12th grade school district trustees.
