

Dave Walz, a New Boston resident formerly of Livonia, has recorded "Living With a Ghost," written by a Grammy-award-winning songwriter.

Singer releases new recording

Detroit-area singer Dave Walz, a former Livonia resident, has just released his first recording for Artisan Records in Nashville.

The record, "Living With a Ghost," was written by Terry Caruso, 1981 Grammy Award-winning Best Songwriter of the Year in Canada.

During the last two years, Walz recorded two albums locally and released them under his own label. His two sisters, who are from Farmington Hills and Dearborn, did backup on his first album, a pop-gospel record "My God and I."

The latest album, "Country Old, Country New," contains "Assembly Line Blues," which was nominated for a Grammy in 1981, and "Ghost Riders." Both songs are still getting airplay in Michigan, North Dakota and Minnesota.

LAST DECEMBER Walz signed a contract with Elk Publishing, another Nashville-based company, to publish some of his own songs.

Last November Walz performed at a benefit concert, for a new sound board, at Salem High School in Plymouth. In June he did a concert for the Livonia Arts Festival and in August performed at the "Concert Under the Stars" summer series sponsored by the Livonia Arts Council.

He also has given many concerts in the Farmington-Bloomfield area and in Farmington Hills.
