

Potters pay tribute

As Pewabic Pottery celebrates its 75th anniversary, 46 potters are participating in a benefit exhibit and sale. Among the works in the show is this large stoneware bowl with altered surfaces by Marie Woo of Bloomfield Township. Other area artists represented are Kathy Dambach, Birmingham, John Glick, Farmington and Ray Katz, Pontiac. The exhibit, "Tribute," continues through Nov. 14. Pewabic Pottery, founded by Mary Chase Stratton, is at 10125 E. Jefferson, Detroit. Hours are noon to 5 p.m. daily.

Printmaker/teacher shares his talents

Norman Stewart, award-winning local artist and teacher at Lahser High School, believes his role as an educator extends beyond the classroom walls.

Stewart will take part in two programs involving art students other than those in his Lahser classes. The first, "Conversations with Professionals," will be at University of Michigan School of Art Saturday. During the morning sessions will have an opportunity to meet with practicing artists on an individual basis to discuss the state of the profession and what the future may hold. The event is sponsored by the alumni association of the school of art.

Stewart will also participate in a field trip project sponsored by Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association. Area high-school students interested in becoming better acquainted with the alternatives within the field of art as a profession will visit Stewart's studio for a discussion and demonstration of printmaking.

Cabaret concert staged

Soprano Lagratta Mitchell, accompanied by Rita Sears will be the featured performer in a cabaret-style concert at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 12 on Highland Lakes Campus of Oakland Community College. The campus is at 7350 Cooley Lake Road in Union Lake.

All food will be prepared by Cafe

This program allows the students to visit and experience the working environment of a variety of artists.

Stewart was also commissioned earlier this year to create a print for the Drawing and Print Club of the Detroit Institute of Arts. His silkscreen, "Mirage," printed in 21 colors in an edition of 40, was the culmination of that commission. It was done in Stewart's Wing Lake Studio in Birmingham.

Stewart's work is in the current print show, "One Good Print Deserves Another," at Detroit Focus Gallery and he is a part of the Artist Grant Recipients Exhibit at Pontiac Art Center.

Stewart received funding from the Michigan Council for the Arts to research low-toxicity chemistries for the artists using the screenprinting process.

Stewart, who holds a bachelor's and master's from University of Michigan completed a second master's in printmaking at Cranbrook Academy of Art where he worked with Irwin Hollander and Connor Everts.
