Effective confrontation and appropriate use of questions will be the focus of a Helping Skills Workshop in St. John Provincial Seminary, Plymouth, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Nov. 16. Sister Rose Teresa Izzo will conduct the day-long session.

Besides learning effective confrontation, students will review skills in communication: listening, attending, observing, responding, personalizing and initiating. Sister Izzo said. The session will be especially useful to people who have been trying to practice helping skills but would like an in-service to make them more effective, she said.

An adjunct instructor at St. John, in counseling and applied theology, Sister Izzo teaches courses in Dying, Death, Grief and Alcoholism Education, the latter to begin at St. John Dec. 6. Sister Izzo is also a consultant for the Center for Family Counseling at St. Joseph Hospital, Mt. Clemens.
