

Opening series

Ronnie Milsap will appear in concert Nov. 26 at the University of Detroit's Cullen Hall. The singer of country and pop songs will give a regular concert at 6 p.m. and a black-tie concert for a limited number of U-D alumni and friends at 9 p.m. The event marks the U-D's return as a platform for top musical entertainment, after an eight-year hiatus. Tickets for the regular concert are available at all CTC outlets and U-D's athletic office (927-1155). Tickets for the special concert ($100 per person) are available through the athletic office, or the alumni office at 927-1008.

Second runs Tom Panzenhagen

"Dr. No" (1962) and 10 p.m. Saturday, 8 p.m. Sunday; "From Russia with Love" (1963), 4 p.m. Saturday, 2 and 10 p.m. Sunday; "You Only Live Twice" (1967), 6 p.m. Saturday, 4 p.m. Sunday; "Diamonds Are Forever" (1971), 8 p.m. Saturday, 6 p.m. Sunday all at the Punch & Judy, 21 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, phone 882-7363, $3 for four films. Running times: 111 minutes, 116, 117, 119, respectively.

Sean Connery appeared in six Bond films from 1962 to 1971. This series at the Punch omits the middle two, "Goldfinger" (1964) and "Thunderball" (1965). Coincidentally, Connery successor Roger Moore is at work on his sixth Bond film, "Octopussy." In this his ninth year as 007. Comparisons between the two are inevitable, but keep in mind that the early Bonds provided a grittier brand of cinematic realism while the Bond films of the '70s and '80s have taken on comic-book proportions. And those Bond fans who say they prefer Connery as Ian Fleming's 007 probably prefer his first three films, with "Thunderball," even Connery's Bond began to be overshadowed by multi-million-dollar sets and space-age adventures stories.

Rather than compare actors, it would be better to compare films, the first three Bonds vs. the last nine. The ultimate comparison may be made in the next few months, though. That's when "Octopussy" premieres, along with another Bond film starring Connery himself. Stay tuned. Rating: $3.

"Tarzan's New York Adventure" (1942), 11:30 a.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 71 minutes.

The title alone of this last Weissmuller-O'Sullivan Tarzan film offers sufficient evidence of how far the writers would go to provide fodder for another jungle adventure. This time, though, the jungle is made of concrete. Boy is approaching puberty, and Tarzan and Jane evince a middle-age pounce. O'Sullivan wisely asked out of the series; Weissmuller clung to the vine for another six years and six films. Rating: $2.30.

"Rio Lobo" (1970), 1 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 114 minutes. They didn't know what to do with John Wayne when he got old, so they thrust him into roles better suited for Clint Eastwood, Charles Bronson or a much younger John Wayne. Duke should have made "Rio Lobo" at least 10 years earlier, and he did. The film was called "Rio Bravo" (1959) and Howard Hawks directed both pictures. Jennifer O'Neill, perhaps the worst actress of all time, also stars. Rating: $1.10.

He's Cyrano

Matt Penn appears in the title role of "Cyrano de Bergerac," through Nov. 12 at the Hilberry Theatre on the Wayne State University campus in Detroit. Edmond Rostand's classic romantic drama is about a dashing swordsman with the heart of a poet and the face of a clown. Tickets may be reserved by calling the WSU Theatre box office, Cass and Hancock, at 577-2972.
