

OBSERVATION POINT

High School Students Need Chance To Speak Up

Publisher

Publisher

Spring is bustin' out all over, at last, and with it is coming the usual burst of student activity on college campuses and in local high schools.

Even hay short-memory can recollect the days when it was panty raids, and hot-rodding around country roads.

But no longer.

around country roads.
But no longer.
This spring-4t was a student strike to get increased black admissions at the University of Michigan. It was a student march last week in Southfield in honor of Dr. Martin Lyther King's death.
And last week the question of student political clubs in high schools popped up again.

schools popped up again.

THIS TIME it was at Clarenceville High School, which serves Livonia. Farmington and a corner of Redford. The Clarenceville school board voted to support for the time being, the superintendent's veto of a political action club in the high school. Several hundred people attended the board meeting, with many statements supporting and condemning formation of the Student Mobilization Committee at Clarenceville High.

It's clearly a hot issue and one, if I'm not mistaken, which will become hutter as the months pass.

pass Student demands for high school recognition of political clubs have already been made and gently rejected by the school board in Livonia. At Southfield high School, some students have asked for the same thing—with the same result. the same result.

In most cases, high school administrators have reasoned that political clubs and student involvement in political issues are, in themselves, fine. But what happens if political clubs are recognized and a far-out group such as the White Panthers then deas the White Panthers then de-mands recognition?

The educators don't want to get trapped into an obviously dis-criminatory position, approving "acceptable" political clubs but turning down the far-outers.

IN MANY WAYS, this is a reasonable position. It's particularly so when voting taxpayers are likely to reject millage increases if they feel the high schools are spawning revolutionaries at public expense.

But the students do have a point.

But the students do have a point.

Student councils and other inhouse student political activities are generally regarded as mostly irrelevant to issues outside the confines of the school. In schools which recognize them, both the young Republicans and Young Democrats, together with their nen versions, are almost totally ineffective, indeed, neither political party seems comfortable with them. If they shut them down, they could be accused of being anti-youth; but they don't help the porty much and cost money and aggravation.

So, goes the student argument.

if student councils and the YRs and YDs don't meet our needs, give us something that does. Namely, student political clubs.

Namely, student political clubs.

MUCH OF THE emotional energy behind demands for student political clubs has come from the war in Vietnam—an issue about which student councils have very little pertinent to say.

Some school administrators hope that when the war ends, such demands will peter out.

My guess is that other issues will take Vietnam's place. Pollution. Youth power. Drugs. Perhaps even women's liberation. Certainly sex.

The problem is that established institutions in high schools—student councils and "regular" party youth groups—are very poorly equipped to express students' interest in such issues.

So students demand some er institution which does the job. School boards and principals. equally naturally, are worried because entirely new institutions are very unpredictable and hard

MY GUT FEELING is that MY GUT FEELING is that the high schools are going to have to provide some way for students to get involved in issues which interest them. If they don't, there will be a lot of pent-up feeling, which ultimately will burst out in a much less positive way than merely a political club.

Students and teachers in Plymouth High School learned this just three weeks ago, when students had the idea for a teachin on the environment. They planned the program much along the lines of the now-famous teachin at the U of M, and brought in outside experts.

Almost everyone involved agrees that it was a constructive and educational program, one which both expressed student interest in a new issue and contrib-uted to the goals of education.

If student wishes for institu-tions through which to express their concern about important issues of our time are to be brought to co-exist with the goals of education and the sensibilities brought to co-of education and the sensibilities of the voting taxpayers, all sides could do worse than look at Plym-outh's innovative and construc-tive approach.

Tim Richard writes

Test Your Political Thoughts

This, if you haven't noticed, is a political year, and one thing you learn as you cover politics and try to vote intelligently is that you can't simply "look at the record" in judging a candidate.

For one thing, some candidates—Lenore Romney and Zolon Ferency come to mind—have no record because they have never held a major elective public office. For another, legislators have a way of fudging the records with strange parliamentary maneuvers, and you can't tell their real views.

And so, over the years, I've their real views.

And so, over the years, I've developed a test, in the style of college boards and the rest, to help you determine your own political inclinations as well as those of politicians you listen to and read about. It's called "Left Wing

Sense And Nonsense

A recent issue of Newsweek magazine reported a new device to prevent airplane hijacking. It is a sort of electronic gizmo which sniffs out bullets and which shifts out bullets and bombs at long range. The com-pany which makes it says the detector can be programmed to light up in the presence of "trace elements" implanted in merchan-dise and other items.

Given the outbreak of bomb Given the outbreak of bomb-ing which has struck our big ci-ties, it might be interesting to explore getting manufacturers of dynamite and other explosives to put detectable "trace elements" into all their products.

Police, city authorities and building security staffs could be provided with detectors to sniff out bombs before they go off. And the public might be put a little more at ease.

ALL THE ANSWERS are correlated so that far-out right-wingers will tend to pick "a," conservatives "b," liberals "c," and left-wingers "d." Try a few. 1. The nation headed by Mao

Tse-tung is:

(a) The Red China conspiracy.

(b) Communist China.

(a) The red China conspirates
(b) Communist China.
(c) Mainland China.
(d) The People's Democratic Republic of China.
2. White Americans:
(a) Are the leaders of civilizations

(b) Have contributed much to civilization. (c) Should feel guilty. (d) Should feel sick with shame. 3. The University of Michigan College of Literature, Science and the Arts: (a) Is dominated by commies. pot-heads and spoiled brats from Brooklyn.

Brooklyn.

(b) Is full of left-wing and impractical people who don't know what it's like to meet a payroll.

(c) Contains more intellectuals than such merely technical schools as medicine and law.

(d) Is irrelevant and oppressive to blacks and the disadvantaged.

4. Oil commanies are:

4. Oil companies are:
(a) Indispensable to the American way of life.
(b) Good sources of taxes and charitable donations.

charitable donations.
(c) Getting away with murder through tax loopholes.
(d) Enemies of people, ducks and

(d) Enemies of people, ducks and other living things.

5. Plymouth is:
(a) The flower of Americanism and culture.
(b) A community of fine homes.
(c) Undergoing great social change is:

(a) A sign of social and moral A CHECK OF THE records depravity.

A CHECK OF THE records shows he has missed 50% of the -Right Wing," and it works like this:

ALL THE ANSWERS are correlated so that far out by 12h."

(b) Messy-but one's own business.

(c) An acceptable method of personal social expression.

(d) Groovy, man.

10. I believe in:

(a) Law-n-order.

(b) Freedom and justice under the rule of law.

(c) Equal opportunity for all, regardless of, etc.

This letter is written to set the record straight about recreational vehicles. The same recreational vehicles maligned by James G. Chavey in his recent letter as 'tin can monsters.''
My family and 1 have been Livonia residents since March 1, 1958 and have

By DON EDGAR

View points expressed in DISSENI do not necessarily reflect those of Observer Newspapers Inc., but are presented in the belief that publication of all segments of thought on a public issue is a prerequisite to understanding and progress.

R.T. Thompson writes

Does 50% Attendance ${\it Represent\ Any\ District?}$

For some time, Trustee James Boswell, of Livonia, has com-plained to members of the School-plained to members of the School-craft College Board that he should have more than one vote. "As the elected representative of Livonia, which has half of the population in the college district. I feel that I should have three votes," has been Boswell's stand

"It is ridiculous that my dis trict should have only the same voting power as Clarenceville, Northville or Plymouth. I feel that one vote for Livonia is just like not having any vote. The much smaller districts can and do vote together and Livonia re-ceives short score."

Boswell has made this state-ment more than once in board mentings and more than once he hat stalked out of sessions when

(d) Londergoing great social change.

(e) Undergoing great social change.

(f) A fascist little Peyton Place.

(e) A nopen housing ordinance:

(a) Is forced housing.

(b) Should be checked for strict legality by the township attorney, the attorney general, the deans of three law schools, and the Supreme Court and then submitted to a vote of the people.

(c) Is a fine gesture to the innercity community to show good will and keep them from rioting.

(d) Is a farce.

7. SEMCOG (the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments) is:

michigan Council of the ments is:

(a) An inner-city plot to diminish suburban sovereighty.

(b) A fine way to get cooperation, if everyone will cooperate.

(c) Not as good as massive doses of federal aid directly to the cites.

(d) A suburban plot to prevent the inner-city community from controlling its own destiny.

8. Poor people:

(a) Are lazv and untrustworthy. ties
(d) A suburban plot to prevent the inner-city community from controlling its own destiny.

8. Poor people:
(a) Are lazy and untrustworthy the Are to be pitied, but should be zoned out of our community.
(c) Need massive federal aid programs.
(d) Have been robbed by racists.

9. Long hair on young males its:
(e) CHECK OF THE records.

regular meetings since July 1967. From January 1969 through June 1969, the board held 15 meet-ings — Boswell attended only seven. During the months of Oc-tober. November and December in 1969, he did not attend one ses-on The Observer mentioned this in one of its news stories and he did put in an appearance at the Janu-ary and February meetings.

It was at the March session this year that he made his four-min-ute announcement and walked Earlier, he walked out of a meeting after his proposal to allo-cate a number of scholarships for inner city students, including free tuition, bus service and numerous other items not available to pre-sent holders of scholarships, was denied by a majority vote.

Then there was a session in mid-summer last August when Boswell tried unsuccessfully to stall approval of the annual budget. This situation was ofeated when two board members were on avacation and five votes were required for nassage.

were on vacation and five votes were required for passage. Boswell and Dr. George Martin voted against approval-making it 42-and there was a lengthy de-bate before Martin finally voted in favor with provisions agreed to by the other four board mem-bers. Boswell never did change his vote.

CONSTANT ABSENTEEISM could have an effect on decisions of the board. It takes five votes to pass anything and six votes to change bylaws, and a member can't vote for or against if he change oylaws, and a memoer can't vole for or against if he isn't present.

Boswell does have a point in believing the board is malapportioned. He may have grounds for ourt action to force an issue.

But the records show he hasn't been the representative of Livonia he claims to be. A 50% absentee can't be considered much of a representative for any area. of a representative for any area, group or district.

had three travel trailers since 1989. Each has been stored in our backyard. Our latest trailer is about 19 feet four inches in length, about the size of a typical unit.

First, a recreational vehicle, whether it be a travel trailer, a pick-up track camper coach or a motor more is not a "in can mostser." Most gates or ABS plastic Some of these units cost up to 85 500; most cost in the $5,000 to $5,000 range.

There are very few recreational vehicles that are $5 feet long Most are well under 25 feet. Whethe the trend is to larger trailers, the average size will not even approach 25 feet, much less $3 feet or longer. Most travel trailers are between seven and eight feet high not!

seven and eight leet high not 10.

WE LIVE in the middle of the block and our trailer sits in front of our parage, more than 10 feet in back of the rear line of our house. It is always ready for the road Like ahout 90° of the other recreational vehicle owners in Livonia, we load our trailer in the back yard.

The revised city ordinance-there is one already on the books that is more inhered in some respects than the proposed law-is a fair law. In fact, some trailer owners object to certain portions—despecially those pertaining > rorner lots.

So that there is no mistaking my atti-tude. I live in a house, not a shrine. I have a backyard, not a botanical garden. I feel no responsibility, whatsoever, to create on my property some aesthetic masterpiece for my neighbor's pleasure. I maintain my home and yard in a neat

What goes on in my backyard, so long as it is legal and moral, is my business and not that of my neighbor. Somewhere down the line, a restrictive recreational vehicle storage ordinance is gaing to be tested on the property owner's constitu-tional and civil rights.

tional and civil rights

A RECREATIONAL VEHICLE is anything but a 'time an immister'. In reality, it is a magic carpet that whisks a family into the healthful realin of the outdoors awas from the pressures of modern so-test and introducing neighbors.

An 10 years, we have traveled more than 100,000 miles into some of the farthest reaches of the wilderness. We could not have done this without our trailer. The same is true for almost every family that has a recreational vehicle. Notice, if you will, that trailerists do not complian about noisy swimming pools, smelly barberue pits and trash burners, unlessled dogs and undisciplined brats.

But on the other hand, trailerists are.

But, on the other hand, trailerists are active in conservation, help pick-up litter and always willing to lend a helping hand whenever it is needed.

It has been my privilege to serve as an advisor on the Keep America Beautin inational council. Why Becluse I own a trailer. My family and I were asked by Mrs. Lyndon Johnson to assist her dedicate a new park in Michigan. Why? Because I own a trailer.

own a trailer.

Recreational vehicle owners are not gypsies, nor are they second class citizens because of their hobby. They are honest, hard working and respectful. Why then all this unnecessary commotion about parking a trailer in the owners host ward?

why the control of th job in the current revision. And a McNamara, a travel owner, can do a service to all Livonia residents by urging its enactment.

Editorial & Opinion

OBSERVER NEWSPAPERS, INC. . Philip H. Power, Publisher

The Livonia Observer • The Redford Observer
The Westland Observer • The Garden City Observer
The Plymouth Mail & Observer • The Southfield Observe
The Farmington Enterprise & Observer

Serving the communities of: Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Cardon Township, Farmington Farmington Township, Redford Township, Garden City, Westland, Southfield, Lathrup Village