Cheer without a chance of chagrin

Toast the new year . . . share a glass of cheer . . . drink to your dear friends' health and happiness. The holidays bring out a sense of tradition, but you can add sparkle to your holiday celebrations without adding alcohol. Festive and colorful drinks that truly toast your guests' health are easy to prepare.

A simple glass of red or white sparkling grape juice, served in champagne-style glasses, provides an elegant table setting and is a perfect complement to your favorite cheese.

If you are planning a party and want to serve a punch without alcohol, try this recipe for sparkling Celebration Punch. This recipe makes 28 one-half cup servings.

CELEBRATION PUNCH

1 can (6 ozs.) frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed 1 1/2 cups water 1 1/2 cups sliced strawberries 1 cup blueberries 2 bottles (25.4 ozs. each) sparkling white grape juice.

In a large bowl, combine lemonade, water, ice cubes, strawberries and blueberries. Stir to mix. Just before serving, pour in the sparkling grape juice. Enjoy.

Perhaps you want to serve drinks for a tree-lighting party or a New Year's Day brunch. If so, you can mix a batch of lively, non-alcoholic drinks for the occasion. Bloody Mary drinkers will enjoy this recipe.

reasons: Some corks are larger than others; the cork may not be moist enough; bottlenecks vary slightly; imperfections in the bottle, etc.

You may consider using a cork-puller (which resembles pliers) if your fingers aren't strong enough or if your hands perspire. There are handsome gadgets available in many stores for just this purpose.

A napkin or towel around the bottle is suggested for a neater presentation and to get a better grip on the bottle. Pour a small amount into a glass and test the sparkling wine for quality and soundness. Then, pour into each glass gradually, letting the foam subside and finally filling to about two-thirds.

Sparkling wines are unlike other wines in that they are best enjoyed when they are released from the winery. In fact, it is only available when it is ripe for consumption.
