Poetry for Christmas

my friendship with you
is as important as your friendship
is to me
Have a wonderful Christmas

"EVEN IF YOU don't write your own Christmas cards, at least personalize the ones you send by adding a special note in your own words," advises Schutz. They will mean so much more to the recipient if you have them personalized them with a sentiment such as:

When I think about you
I can only think of happiness

and how lucky I am to know you

"Cards with a personal touch are cards that people want to keep," continues Schutz. "I've seen our cards months later in the homes of our friends — they have mounted and shelacked them. And they really do make great wall hangings. But my husband and I get the most enjoyment out of creating the cards. He does the outside with an airbrush drawing, and I write the message in the inside. It's fun to do, and we do it together. But most of all, it reminds us of the true beauty of the season."
