Puppies and kittens can be found in a variety of places, but you might consider the Humane Society and Animal Shelters that are located in Wayne and Oakland County. Each year the organizations take in thousands of young dogs and cats who are killed if homes can not be found for them. The dog above and the cat at left were fortunate in having found homes in which they now are happy. The shelters usually provide animals on the condition that the person who takes a pet pay for neutering the animal, to avoid a problem of overpopulation of strays.
