

Schoolcraft Inspired Longfellow's 'Hiawatha'

Nearly every age has its legends, its heroic men and heroic deeds and men who tell their stories. The Greeks had Homer. The Romans had Cicero. The American Indian had Schoolcraft and Longfellow.

HENRY ROVE SCHOOLCRAFT was an Indian agent based in Sault Ste. Marie in Michigan's upper peninsula in the early 19th century. He married Jane Johnston, daughter of an Indian princess and Irish fur trader.

As well as an Indian agent, Schoolcraft was a geologist, historian and the area's first travel writer. He collected Indian legends from his wife, mother-in-law, Princess Green Glade, and other Indian sources. He is honored locally by the Western Wayne Community College District, which adopted the name Schoolcraft College.

the shining Big-Sea-Water," imagining the Chippewa warrior Hiawatha performing great deeds in the deep forests. Gitche Gumee is Lake Superior, largest fresh water lake in the world, a sparkling, cold, crystal-clear inland sea. The shores are the beaches, cliffs, forests and waterfalls of Michigan's upper peninsula. It's the land of Hiawatha.

"Few portions of America can vie in scenic attractions with this interior sea," Schoolcraft wrote of Lake Superior. "Its size alone gives it all the elements of grandeur; but these have been heightened by the mountain masses which nature has piled along its shores. In some places these masses consist of vast walls, of coarse gray or drab-colored sandstone, placed horizontally until they have attained many hundred feet in height above the water."

Hiawatha who then called down thunder and lightning which shook the rocks and Pau-Puk-Keewis was killed in the rockfall.

Ended were his wild adventures. Ended were his tricks and gambols. Ended all his mischief-making. All his gambling and his dancing. All his wooing of the maidens," Longfellow wrote.

THE PICTURED ROCKS remain one of Michigan's major attractions and are best seen from the lake, according to the Tourist Council. Regularly scheduled cruises depart daily from the Munsing Municipal Pier.

The 37-mile round trip in large, comfortable cabin cruisers takes 2 1/2 to three hours. "The eye...is never done looking and admiring," Schoolcraft wrote. PAUL OBER, 9, of 29921 High Meadow, Farmington, caught this 50-pound sailfish and has entered it in the Metropolitan Miami (Fla.) fishing tournament. He fished with Capt. Doc Feldman out of Caspways Docks and received a citation for his catch.

Agnew To Speak In Detroit

Vice President Spiro Agnew, the most sought after personality on the political lecture circuit, has been secured by Michigan Republicans for a "Vice Presidential Dinner" in Detroit June 15.

Agnew's acceptance of the engagement was announced by Harold McClure State GOP finance chairman, and Ernest A. Jones, Southeastern Michigan United Republican Fund chairman.

Ticket information about "the Vice Presidential Dinner" can be obtained by calling Jack Slater at 964-0190.
