Volunteers are sought for upcoming marathon

Volunteers are needed to staff the West Bloomfield Half-Marathon, slated for 12:30 p.m. Sunday, April 17.

The success of the half-marathon depends on more than 100 volunteers who direct runners along the route, provide water at six aid stations and help out at registration and the finish line, according to Miriam Kapur of West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation.

The race is co-sponsored this year by parks and recreation and Henry Ford Hospital's West Bloomfield Center.

Registered volunteers receive a free T-shirt and will be treated to an after-race dinner by Buddy's Pizza of Farmington Hills.

Anyone interested in volunteering should call Kapur at 334-5660.

ENTRY FORMS for the race are available from West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation, 3325 Middlebelt. Deadline is 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 13.

Entry fee is $8 for individuals and $4 for teams vying for the Hospital Team Cup — open to teams from any hospital whose members meet eligibility requirements.

The race features five age divisions for men and women and is sanctioned for the first time by The Athletics Congress (TAC). All entrants receive T-shirts. Custom key chains go to the first 750 finishers.

The half-marathon, which starts and ends at West Bloomfield High School, is scheduled two weeks later this year in hopes of avoiding the 35 mph winds and 30-degree temperatures which characterized last year's race.

"We hope to find some runners entering as an alternative to the Boston Marathon, which will be running the following day," said race director Craig Monahan. Last year's West Bloomfield Half Marathon drew 539 finishers from many parts of Michigan, as well as Ontario and Ohio. Dennis Kuris of Livonia took top honors with a time of 1:12. Cynthia Poly of Keego Harbor led the women's division in 1:27:34.

C'ville serves dinner

Clarenceville High School will host a dinner for district residents at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 20 in the school cafeteria, 20155 Middlebelt.

Diners have a choice of a full course lasagna, hamburger, pizza or fish dinner for $1.50. Elementary students can receive a meal for 50 cents, and secondary students can eat for $1.

Purpose of the school lunch/dinner is to acquaint parents, as well as students with the school lunch operation, said Lisa Winkler, Clarenceville food service director.

Tours of the kitchen and warehouse facilities will be held. Information on menu planning, pricing of lunches and purchasing procedures will be available to students and parents.

The Clarenceville district includes parts of Livonia, Redford Township and Farmington Hills.

Young authors tell stories

Six fifth- and sixth-grade students from the Academy of the Sacred Heart Middle School will be attending a Young Authors Conference at Oakland University on April 28. At the conference they will be sharing an original story with other students. Students participating in the conference are: Jennifer Wesley, Valina Petroz, Min Sori, Patricia Bonfield, Rebecca Herman and Heather Rentz.
