

Concert celebrates arrival of spring

"Celebration of Spring" is the program theme for the West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at West Bloomfield High School Auditorium.

Opening this salute to spring will be Vivaldi's "Spring" from "The Four Seasons." This is the most popular of the 400 concertos Vivaldi wrote.

Next will be Robert Schumann's interpretation of the season in his Symphony No. 1, "Spring." Although the composer wrote this in winter, he had just gotten married, so his thoughts at the writing were warm.

In fact, his notes to the conductor include: "... Could you infuse into your orchestra in the performance a sort of longing for the spring, which I had chiefly in mind while I composed in February 1841?"

Following this will be "On Hearing The First Cuckoo In Spring" by Delius.

In it the composer interprets a Norwegian folk song, Ola dalm (In Ola Valley).

"Appalachian Spring" by Aaron Copland is modern and sharply different in style than the others. Originally scored as "Ballet for Martha" in 1943, he rewrote it in 1945 as an orchestral suite.

Closing the evening will be "Voices of Spring" by Strauss.

The concert is underwritten in part by the Bendix Corp. of Southfield.

For ticket information, call or write the symphony office, 626-1560 or 537-6511, 5540 W. Maple, Suite 201, West Bloomfield, 48303.

Tickets are $8 for adults and $5 for students.

West Bloomfield High School Auditorium is at 4925 Orchard Lake, between Lone Pine and Walnut Lake roads, West Bloomfield.

Grandparents needed as SAGE participants

SAGE (Senior Adults Giving to Education) needs grandparents to participate in its final '82-'83 session, to begin Monday, May 2, and run four weeks. Grandparents will meet with children school for 60-90 minutes per week and share their talents with them: storytelling, creative writing, stitching, woodworking, and any other talent.

SAGE, sponsored by Farmington Ranch, American Association of University Women and Farmington Public Schools, attempts to bring young and old generations together and show that both have like interests and can relate easily.

Louis McBroom, a Farmington resident and a grandparent in both the fall and winter SAGE sessions, said, "I've spent a lot of time in volunteer work and never has my return been so great. For the amount of time I've given. We all learned from each other."

Contact Phyllis Cummings, 476-4735, for further information.
