

Fey-Ingram

Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Fey Jr. are married recently in Cincinnati, Ohio, where Fey's family resides.

The bride is the former Wendy Ingram, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.A. Ingram III of Waterford.

After a week's honeymoon in Niagara Falls and Toronto, the newlyweds returned to Michigan for a reception hosted by the Ingrams at the residence of Mrs. Fey's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Alfred Ingram Jr. of Farmington Hills.

The couple are now residing in Casselberry, Fla.

York-Amey

Mr. and Mrs. Robert York of Farmington Hills announce the engagement of their daughter Tamara Ann to Craig Philip Amey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Amey of Flint.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Harrison High School employed by Corrosion Fluid Products Corporation in Farmington. Her fiancé is a graduate of Flint Kearsley High School and attends Ferris State College.

A May wedding is planned in Prince of Peace Lutheran Church.

Matisse exhibit shows depth of skills

"Henri Matisse: Prints and Illustrated Books" will be featured in the Schwartz Graphic Arts Galleries of the Detroit Institute of Arts from Tuesday, May 10 through Sunday, Aug. 14.

An outstanding selection of illustrated books including both versions of "Jazz" (with and without handwritten text) and "The Legend of Pasiphae" with poetic text by Henri de Montherlant will show Matisse's achievement in this medium.

Along with the artist's book, 35 prints from the permanent collection of the Art Institute will be exhibited. These fine examples of Matisse's graphic work are in various techniques such as etching, aquatint, lithography and linocut.

"I do not distinguish between the construction of a book and that of a painting," Matisse wrote late in his career.

Between 1930 and 1952, the artist designed 11 books. Whether painting or using etching as in his first book, Matisse's "Poésies" (1933), he strove to integrate words and illustrations so as to bring out each expressive nuance.

A highlight of the exhibition are 90 linocut illustrations for "Pasiphae," exhibited in Detroit for the first time. These are variants of the illustrations Matisse selected for "Pasiphae" and were only recently discovered, according to Ellen Sharp, curator of Graphic Arts.

THESE WHITE linocuts on black pages were printed in 1981 by Fequet-Baudier, printers of the original edition in 1944.

Lines of varied widths and sweeping curves remarkably demonstrate the artist's purpose — to make his line drawings a pure, direct translation of his emotion. The linocuts are being circulated under the auspices of the International Exhibitions Foundation, Washington, D.C.

The exhibition, "Henri Matisse: Prints and Illustrated Books," will be open to the public without charge. Museum hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Sunday. Closed Mondays and holidays.

There will be two programs regarding the exhibit. Victor Carlson, an authority on the artist's draughtsmanship, will give an illustrated lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday, June 8, on "Henri Matisse: A Painter's Prints" in the Lecture/Recital Hall. Admission is $3, senior citizens and students with ID $2 and Founders members $1.

Carlson will also give free Masterwork of the Week talks at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 8, and Friday, June 10. His subject will be "The Plumed Hat," a celebrated Matisse drawing from the Art Institute's permanent collection.

"Matisse's Achievement in the Art of the Illustrated Book" will be discussed by Ruth Rattner of the Graphic Arts department in free gallery talks at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 15 and Friday, June 17.
