

'Country' goes suburban

Out of the freedom characterized by the use of many designs from different periods, a new country look has emerged. Designers call it country not because of a particular lifestyle but because of its home color, texture and material. This furniture by Thomasville has a contemporary originality with Shaker-like clean lines. In this room, the interior designer pulled the bed into the room's center and used twin armoires to create their own wall system. The drama is provided by the super graphic.
