

House OKs new Senate salary, limit on honorariums

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the days before the current summer recess.

HOUSE

PAY — By a vote of 225 for and 105 against, the House agreed to accept Senate-passed language relating to senator's pay and honorariums.

The vote means a senator's public salary will rise immediately by 15 percent to $59,800, and that beginning Jan. 1, 1984 senators will be limited to 30 percent of their salary (about $20,940) in speaking fees and other forms of honorariums.

House members and senators thus will have the same salary and honorarium levels.

The vote occurred during debate on the conference report of an appropriations bill (H.R. 3069), later sent to the White House.

Supporter Vic Fazio, D-Calif., said "Common Cause and others who have been very interested in this issue" wanted the House to accept the Senate provisions.

Opponent James Sensenbrenner, D-Wisc., said the 30 percent cap on senators' honorariums should take effect immediately and not be delayed until next January.

Members voting yes favored the Senate-passed language.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, William Ford, D-Taylor, and Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit. Not voting: William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

IMF — The House passed, 217 for and 211 against, a bill to increase by $2.4 billion the U.S. contribution to the International Monetary Fund, which makes loans to Third World nations.

The bill (H.R. 2957), which also extends the life of U.S. Export-Import Bank, was sent to conference with the Senate.

Additional U.S. support of the IMF has drawn criticism on grounds the money would be used to bail out American and other banks that have made bad loans to Third World countries.

Supporter Bernard St. Germain, D-R.I., said "passage of this bill is critical to restoring global financial stability." Opponent Ron Paul, R-Tex., called the measure "the biggest foreign aid bank bailout type of bill that we have ceiving most-favored-nation trade status.

By adopting resolution 256 on this vote, the House delayed indefinitely a move to deprive Romania of certain trade privileges in retaliation for its treatment of minorities and restrictive emigration policies.

The administration and most moderates and liberals generally support most-favored-nation status for Romania.

Conservatives led the effort to penalize Romania in trade matters, citing oppression by the Communist regime of President Nicolae Ceausescu.

Members voting yes wanted Romania to continue to receive most-favored nation trade status.

Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin, Broomfield.

SENATE

MARTI — By a vote of 62 for and 33 against, the Senate ended a filibuster mounted by opponents of a bill (S. 602) to create Radio Marti, an administration effort to transmit information generated by the U.S. government to Cuba.

The bill awaited final action.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who voted to end the filibuster, said "I support Radio Marti as an important contribution to freedom of information in this hemisphere."

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., who wanted to continue the filibuster, called Radio Marti "an extraordinarily expensive propaganda tool that will not be effective."

Most senators voting no were opposed to Radio Marti.

Michigan's Democratic senators Carl Levin and Donald Riegle voted no.

Interior Design Programs

Henry Ford Community College offers two high quality, low cost programs in Interior Design.

The two-year program leads to an Associate Degree in Art and prepares individuals for a professional career in Interior Design.

The one-year certificate program is geared to individuals who wish to study Interior Design for personal enrichment.

Both programs offer courses in the many aspects of Interior Design, including basic design concepts and principles, color theory and application, textiles, materials and construction and history courses, all taught by professional designers.

Some of the history courses will be taught in part at the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, which will offer a unique opportunity to experience historical styles and technology with primary sources.

For those seeking employment in the Interior Design profession, an intern course is offered, designed to provide the advanced student with practical working experiences with a professional design firm or allied business.
