There are a lot of people who aren't going to be able to cope, like the elderly on fixed incomes, and they will remove their phones rather than pay the higher bill. This would be very serious if and Drama of football game is often in the locker room sons did in their big game. Will it be good news, Jim, or will it be bad?" "Well, it better be good. If it isn't, just stay out there on the field and I'll see to it that you get a decent burial."

This phone business is nothing but a scheme for the rich to get richer and the poor to get poorer. This could lead to real trouble. As for me, I'll just rip out the phone.

I really don't care. I don't pay the phone bill anyway.

WITH THAT he patient his brother on the back and sent him into the fray. There wasn't an inch gained around brother Jin's side of the field that after-noon. And his old gray-haired mother up in New England got the good news, her coaching son had so desperately wanted when he spoke those closing words in the pre-game talk. Yes, some of the greatest dramas of the football senson are not always played on the chalk-lined turf on the floors of the stada.

they would long remember," he said after the game. "They would live with the dra-matic moments the rest of their lives. And I told them to play for their families, too, so they would have fond memorics." Well, you know what happened. Coach Perles' performance was drama at its best and it recalled the day when "Biggie" Munn, another Spartan coach, taiked his team into beating the Irish.

"This is the day to prove that you are men." Biggie told his team. "This is the day you can show your mothers that you are men. You can show the world that you are are men." And with that he led them onto the field.

get out there on the field," one of the vet-erans said after the victory. "Biggie cer-tainly did a great job." The one great moment The Stroller never will forget was back in Pennsylva-nia when he followed the fortunes of Lehigh University. Lehigh was coached by a big bruiser of an Irishman named Tom Keady. And it so happened that his younger brother, Jim, Jiaved in the backfield. Before the big game with Lafayette, Keady taiked to the team as a group and then to the players one at a time. He kept his brother for the last. He walked over to him, put his hand on Jim's shoulder, and said, "There is an old gray-haired women up in New England this stetencon waiting to hear what her
