'Oz' highlights Noel Night

The main Detroit Public Library will turn into the fairland of Oz on Noel Night from 6-9 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 7.
Oz characters usually seen wandering down the Yellow Brick Road will be traversing the corridors at the Main Library, giving a lucky penny to each youngster (12 and under) who can identify them correctly. There were more than 40 more Oz books written after "The Wizard of Oz," so there are many more Oz characters than appeared in that book and movie.
Models of the Emerald City of Oz, Dorothy's Kansas farmhouse and the castle of the Wicked Witch of the West will be on exhibit, together with all the famous Oz books by L. Frank Baum, Ruth Plumly Thompson and their successors.
Also exhibited will be posters, records and other memorabilia from the various stage and screen adaptations including the 1939 MGM movie starring Judy Garland.
The library's Noel Night activities will begin at 6 p.m. when the Renaissance Brass Quintet plays Christmas fanfares and carols outdoors from the Woodward loggia. The quartet will present a Christmas concert indoors at 7:45 p.m. in Friends Auditorium.
