

Happier holidays without booze

Before I got married, my idea of a cheerful yuletide holiday was to see how much libation I could consume without getting lousy. I usually remembered much less than I saw.

After I got married, I found that good friends and less liquor made for a much more enjoyable celebration.

Except for a glass of champagne to welcome the new year, I do not drink booze. Wine on special occasions and to cook with; beer, yes, and to cook with, too.

I am a firm believer that you can have a cheerful holiday without liquid holiday cheer.

My idea of a before-dinner cocktail is beef bouillon, doctored with lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce and poured over ice.

Over the years, I have discovered punch is an excellent party drink. Whatever combination of fruit and soft drinks, I usually like to float ice cream or sherbet in the punch bowl; sometimes fresh strawberries, lemon, lime or oranges.

For a more sophisticated punch, such as apple, I serve it over crushed ice. But I still like to break out the punch bowl before the concoction goes in the glasses.

I guess the best thing about the morning after is you can remember the night before.

BOUILLON COCKTAIL
3 cans (10 1/2 oz.) beef bouillon
3 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients, refrigerate about 1 1/2 hours and pour over ice in glasses. Serves 8.

APPLE PUNCH
2 quarts chilled apple cider
2 cups cranberry juice
2 tsp. lemon juice
4 cups chilled ginger ale

Combine apple cider, cranberry juice and lemon juice in punch bowl. When ready to serve, stir in ginger ale. Pour punch over crushed ice in tall glasses. Serves 15.

Order your cookie tray by Dec. 15

The International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit will once again offer international assortments of holiday treats for sale to the public in time for Christmas gift-giving. Holiday cookie trays will feature treats from the recipes of International Institute Member's Council and ethnic community representatives.

This year's collection will feature German Stollen prepared by Rich Mischele surrounded by Apricot Kofsky (Polish), recipe from Helen Gordon, Baklava (Greek) Fran Eldis, Almond (Chinese) Margaret Chiu, Lebkuchen (German) Christel Moeller Schwarzmann, Pineapple Coconut (Filipino) Natty Perez, and Mandelsnitter (Danish) John Miller.

"We are so happy to offer these special gifts that were such a hit during the last Christmas season," said Mary Ball, executive director at the International Institute.

The gift-wrapped ethnic treats are available at $8.50 a box or $12 for the executive tray. The recipes are attached compliments of the International Institute.

To order, mail your check or money order, made payable to The International Institute, by Dec. 15 to The International Institute, 111 E. Kirby, Detroit, 48202.

Pick-up is on Tuesday, Dec. 20, Wed. Dec. 21 and Thursday, Dec. 22 at The International Institute, 111 East Kirby at John R in Detroit's Cultural Center, adjacent to the Detroit Institute of Arts. For delivery in the Detroit area, add $2 to your order amount. Call The Institute at 871-8600 for additional information.

ALMOND COOKIES
1 1/4 cup flour
1/4 cup lard
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg (well beaten)
Few drops of almond extract
1/4 tsp. baking powder
Sliced almond pieces for garnish

Put aside 1/4 cup of well beaten egg. Mix together flour, lard, sugar, almond extract, baking powder and the remaining well beaten egg. Shape cookies into a round form and place an almond piece in the center of the cookies. Brush each cookie with the remaining 1/4 cup of well beaten egg.

Bulk Food Warehouse

BULK FOOD BUYING IS HERE!

It's world where shopping can be a confusing maze of prices and products, there is a refreshing solution to the problem. BULK FOOD WAREHOUSE, a retail outlet specializing in bulk cooking, baking and natural food items, offers a sensible alternative to high supermarket prices. If you are like me, you have been forced to purchase a large bag of a product of which you need only a small portion. Well, no more! Now you are free to select exactly the quantity you desire. BULK FOOD WAREHOUSE sells its products for an average of 20-30% less than pre-packaged goods in the grocery store and you can measure what you want yourself into plastic bags or containers, available free at the store.
