Winners: '83 girls All-Area team

North Farmington is represented by Amy Austin, perhaps the most underrated player in the state. Few surpass Austin in terms of pure athletic skill — she is quick, can jump, dribble and shoot. In the three seasons Austin has started for North, the team's record was 41-21.

Austin, a senior, has scored 875 career points. This past season, she averaged 16.6 a game. She was also one of the area's best rebounders, pulling down 76 offensive and 116 defensive rebounds in 20 games this year (an average of almost 10 a game).

She is no slouch on defense either. She made 71 steals and 20 blocks this year.

Plymouth Salem's Pam McBride typifies the "winner" personality of this team. All McBride did in four years as a Rock standout was help her team win 84 games. She was on the losing team just 18 times.

If her team needed her to defend against a player four to six inches taller than her, she did it. If her team needed a clutch basket down the stretch, she provided it. If her team needed a steal or a rebound, she found a way to get it. That's the type of player McBride was for Salem.

"Pam is a super defensive player," said Salem coach Fred Thompson. "And she has made a lot of big baskets over the course of the year. She's a great competitor — she loved to play."

McBride averaged just under 13 points, 7.1 rebounds and three assists per game.

When Kim Archer graduated last year, many felt the glory days were over for Livonia Bentley. Laurie Day saw to it that the glory would reign for one more season, at least.

Day was Bentley's catalyst this year leading them to Western Lakes Athletic

Raider spikers take opener

North Farmington volleyball coach Sandy Lubienicki was pleased with her team's first contest of the season.

"It's really too early to tell, but I thought we played very well for a first game," she said.

North, the defending Northwest Suburban League champ, destroyed Novi 15-4 and 15-5 last Tuesday night.

Lubienicki was especially pleased with the performance of two players.

"I thought our junior setter, Paul Koricki, really passed the ball beautifully for a first game. And Donna Konarski didn't miss a ball all night," she said.

North had a 92 percent serve proficiency and a 91 percent reception rate.
