by the office holder in a city government, he comments:

"Most every public officer is damned if he doesn't aind he has spend so many of his waking hours figuring teh respective strength of the dams that the wonder is that he gets any time to do any work."

THINK IT OVER. Judge Ira Jayne of the Wayne county courts, who acted as toast; master at the Lincoln Banquet at Pontiac Monday night, in commenting; of a statement made by one of the speakers said that in six years service as one of the judges of that circuit during which time the 'prohibition laws have been on the statute bocks; there had shove been before him a person charged with its violation whose status in the rum ranks was above that of a bartender, truck driver or day laborer.

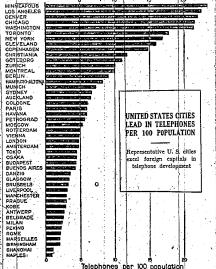

Some good will yet come out of the milling over in the public mind of these peculiar phases of the ipresent liquor law enforcement program.
