MOTORS ARE HUMMING ON RED WING FARMS

Trial Electric Line in Minnesota Is Operating—The Farm Machinery Question.

These are busy days on the eighteen farms lying five miles out from Red Wing, Minn., where a rural electric transmission line has been put into operation to determine by a scientific investigation the economic possibilities of electricity in agriculture. Within the last few weeks a great deal of special apparatus for use on these farms by electric energy has arrived and been put into service.

The current on the trial line was turned on for the first time on Christmas eve. At that time, however, the installation and wiring of the different farms provided only for electric lights. No farm equipment for electrical operation was installed until March 15.

Equipment Arriving Daily During March and April, however,

Largest Army and Navy

Russia has the largest standing army, numbering 1,300,000 men. Her reserves, including militia, amount to 3,500,000. Great Britain has the largest navy in the world—712 vessels with a tonnage of 2,412,144.

Enterprise Liners Pay—Try One

almost every train brought some new piece of equipment into Red Wing, and these utensils were installed as rapidly as possible.

The joint committee which is conducting this experiment consists of four farmers, two power company representatives and the dean of the Minnesota College of Agriculture. The chairman is James F. Read, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation and vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Manufacturers of electrical equipment and of farm machinery are watching this enterprise with keen eyes. Some of the biggest of these companies are co-operating by furnishing equipment; others are taking note of the progress and method of procedure. The General Electric Company sent one of its engineers all the way from its headquarters at Schenectady, N. Y., to inspect the trial line and observe all that is being done.

Electricity and Eggs Again

Eighty eggs a day, instead of a meagerly eight, is what the hens of a Wisconsin poultryman are doing in the winter since the electric lighting of the poultry house. From all accounts, electricity has assuredly uncovered the hidden energy of the hen population.

CHILDREN NOT LOCATED

All efforts to learn the whereabouts of the two children, Millicent and James Chennell, aged 12 and 5 respectively, who disappeared last Tuesday from the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Wilson where they had made their home for nearly two years has been unsuccessful to date.

The children were placed in the Methodist Children's Home at Farmington about two years ago after their parents had become separated and were later brought to South Lyon and placed under the care of the Wilsons.

It is thought the mother of the children was responsible for their disappearance but all effort to locate her or the children has been without success. —South Lyon Herald.

Why Philosopher Laughed

Just why Democritus, a Greek philosopher who lived in the time of Socrates, was called the laughing philosopher is not known for certain. His moral philosophy was very stern, and taught the absolute subjection of all passions. Tradition says Democritus put out his own eyes in order not to be diverted from his meditations.

Some ancient writers say that Democritus became so perfect in his teachings that he went around continually with a smile on his face, and hence the title "laughing philosopher." But others give a different reason. They say the inhabitants of Abdera, the Thracian colony where Democritus was born, were noted for their stupidity, and that he was called the "laughing" or "laughing philosopher" because of the scorn and ridicule he poured on his townsmen for their ignorance. Still others say he received the name from his habit of laughing at the follies of mankind in general.

ALBION ALUMNI BANQUET

Everyone who has graduated from Albion college or who has attended school there for any length of time, and is now residing within the limits of Oakland county is expected to be present at a big Albion reunion, Saturday evening, May 24, at 6:30 at the Woman's club house, in Royal Oak.

Letters have been sent out this week to all of those whose names and addresses are known to the committee informing them of the event. "It is to be regretted, however," says Mrs. Miller, who has the planning of the banquet in hand, that we do not know all of the names, and for that reason we want all former students and alumni to feel that they are a part of the organization, and to get in touch with some member of the committee and signify their intentions of being present."
