Farmington, RU Lead All-Area Track

Hat's off the 1970 All-Observer Area high school track team.

It's a squad loaded with stars . . . who achieved considerable success in dual meet action . . . in league and regional meets . . . and also gained honors in the recent state championships at Ann Arbor.

A special three-man coaching panel comprised of John Mackenzie of Redford Union, Ray Williams of Thurston and Paul Hamburg of Stevenson made the selections for the Observer newspapers.

In making their choices, they honored an individual in only one event, although in two or three instances there were prep who actually might have selected "All-Area" in two categories.

ONE SUCH was Mark Bender of Farmington who posted the best area times in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. He was named in the 220, considered to be his strongest event.

Another in the same category was Doug Kurtis of Stevenson, hailed on the All-Observer team as a two-miler, although he raced to the fastest times in the area in the mile, as well.

Kurtis was sixth in the state Class A meet in the two-mile, which was called his best event by his coach.

THERE WAS NO taking away the fact he won the Inter-Lakes League title in the mile and was also the winner in the mile in the Inter-League meet which brought together the best of the Inter-Lakes, Suburban Six and Northwest Suburban conferences.

The coaching panel, along with Coach Jerry Young of Farmington, who originated the weekly Observer track ratings three years ago, called the 1970 "team" the strongest from an overall standpoint that has been selected in recent years.

"It's especially potent in the longer runs and in the field events," explained Young, who has kept close tab on individual achievements, both in the area and throughout the state.

Virtually all of the choices placed in the state meet after doing well in league and regional action.

TRACK HAS BEEN close to Young's heart since his high school days at Berkley where he starred in cross country and on the track squad.

He's been on the run both sports at Michigan State University from where he was graduated.

It was Young who originated the weekly track ratings which appear in the Observer newspaper during the spring months.

The popularity of the ratings has been wide-spread. He is assisted by his wife, Jean, who besides taking care of the two Young children, Jeff, 7 and

TERRY YOUNG
Coach of Year

Nancy, 3, also teaches junior high at Farmington.

Young himself doesn't put his athletes on the back for the job his athletes have done in cross country as well as in track.

"Give the boys the orbids," he said after being informed of his coach-of-the-year selection.

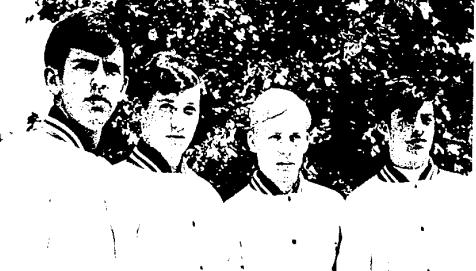

"They're the ones who put in those extra hours of practice and running. They're the ones who will run three and four miles during the cross country season to keep in the best of shape."

But, as anybody knows, it takes a leader . . . and when it comes to track and cross country at Farmington High, it's Jerry Young who shows the way.

For all concerned, the results have been worth the effort.

THURSTON HIGH received two spots on the all-area team, filled by John Lindh (left) and Tom Shaheen.

7-Team Adray Loop Starts Play Sunday

The Adray goes up Sunday on the 1970 schedule in the new Greater Livonia Adray baseball league.

It's actually not a new league. For almost a decade, it's been known hereabouts as the Free Press League.

Seven teams, led by state champion Redford Union, will vie in the Adray circuit.

Adray is back and coached again by Bob Atkins, who has guided the team through the Livonia league, then to state and national honors at Johnstown and Altoona, Pa., during the past three years.

THE OTHER SIX teams are Reff Manufacturing of Northville, managed by Art Adams; Livonia's Hubert Realty, managed by Ron Heller; Plymouth, managed by DeWayne Becker; Farmington Hills, managed by Ron Ermak; and Darrin Construction, managed by George Lerchen.

The Reff team will include most members of the 1970 Northville High baseball team, which won the Les Anders and regional baseball crowns.

Livonia will feature players from the city's four high schools, including some who were on college teams.

Redford Union will present the best of Farmington, Darien will be the best of Garden City, Plymouth the standouts from Plymouth and Westland, the stars from the Wayne area.

THREE GAMES are scheduled at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday.

The Wednesday schedule will see Garden City in its debut, meeting Plymouth at Ford Field in Livonia at 6 p.m.

According to reports, "Eve," the athletic director, had a bit too much in the affairs of the football team and it was said that he was eager to return to coaching the team.

When Crisler retired as Michigan's athletic director and the football coach, he had done an excellent job with the football team, was mentioned prominently as the successor to the throne.

HE IMMEDIATELY received an offer to become the athletic director and brought "Bo" Schembechler, an Ohio State man, in to handle the football coaching duties.

Iowa Wants Bump

By W. W. EDGAR

Throughout his entire athletic career that carried him to All-America honors Michigan's famed 1947 team and later as the head coach of the Wolverines, Chalmers "Bump" Elliott was never known to duck a challenge.

From his days at Iowa for half back on one of Fritz Crisler's famed "single wing" teams, "Bump" crashed his way to ranking as the Most Valuable Player in the Big Ten in 1947, a prelude to being named All-American.

Later as a Wolverine coach he had the thrill of taking the team to the Rose Bowl—and winning, to realize the dream of every football coach.

Now he is faced with the greatest challenge of his illustrious career: . . .

TAKING OVER the athletic directorship at the University of Iowa to succeed another Wolverine, Forest Eveshevski, he is jumping into the fire of athletic turmoil at the Hawkeyes.

For several years Iowa's trouble came to the forefront several weeks ago when Eveshevski was fired as the athletic director and the football coach Ray Nagel was suspended only to be reinstated a few days later.

According to reports, "Eve," the athletic director, had a bit too much in the affairs of the football team and it was said that he was eager to return to coaching the team.

Wooster of Pontiac and Greg Main of Southfield emerged as the top right-handed hurlers on the 1970

Central Michigan freshman baseball team.

Wooster had won mostly under wraps until late in the season when he produced two victories in three days and ended up with a perfect 0.00 earned run average of 13 and one-third in 19 games.

Main was in seven games and posted four wins in five decisions as the most successful right-hander on Coach Dave Kellitz's staff. He was the workhorse of the team, and started the mostinnings on the team, 34, and was touched for 32 hits while fanning 102 and walking 37 and passing 10 batters.

Main's ERA was a fine 2.91. The 6-foot-2, 210 pounder is a graduate of Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows High School.

Then, while rumor followed rumor, in the succession to the athletic throne, and "Bump" seemed to have the inside track, a move by former team mates was launched to get the post for Eveshevski.

Thus, "Bump" and his former coach, who were considered the top rivals. But into the picture came Don Canham, the track mentor, and an outstanding businessman, to take the top job. . . .

He immediately received an offer to become the athletic director, and brought "Bo" Schembechler, an Ohio State man, in to handle the football coaching duties.

BUMP ELLIOTT

paid off with Michigan won the Big Ten title in a hair-raising game with Ohio State, only to lose, 10 to 3, in the Rose Bowl.

MEANWHILE Elliott moved into the shadows as one of the head talent hunters — far from the spotlight he had known for so long.

Outwardly, he seemed pleased.

But, admittedly, he missed the glamour of coaching and the feel of action on the gridiron.

So, it was no surprise when he accepted the post and wound up in one of the hottest spots in the conference.

This is the greatest challenge he ever has faced.

It was Crisler's teaching that enabled "Bump" to build up a record of 51 victories and 42 defeats in nine years, and aided him in the development of such All-American stars as Bo Tinsley in 1964, Jack Clancy in 1966 and Ron Johnson in 1968.
