ANNUAL AWAKENING AT STATE FAIR GROUNDS

Shadukjam Grotto, producers of the annual Awakening spectacle at Detroit have announced the selection of the Michigan State Fair grounds as the location for the 1925 spectacle, which will be produced under the title of Cleopatra. The big fire spectacle will be given fifteen nights, June 27 to July 11.

The attraction this year will have a huge Egyptian scene setting over 500 feet long, covering the home stretch on the infield of the Michigan State Fair mile track.

George Hosker, who directed the first awakening in 1922, has charge of the stage production and the Gordon Fireworks Company will produce the pyrotechnic phases.

AUTO RACING AT STATE FAIR GROUNDS

The Michigan State Fair grounds will become the hub of dirt track auto racing in America this year, with the announcement by Secretary George W. Dickinson of the Michigan State Fair that auto races will be held at the fair grounds July 4 and 5 under sanction of the International Motor Contest Association.

The races will be featured by a world's championship 150 mile race open to the world to all cars irrespective of piston displacement or motor classification. Races for the races have been opened by Bill Breitenstein, manager, of the Port Shelby Hotel.

OLSEN AND JOHNSON AT DETROIT TEMPLE

Olsen and Johnson, America's greatest comedians headline the bill at B. F. Keith's Temple Theatre starting Sunday matinee June 14. These high class clowns offer a new routine of songs, piano playing and monkey shins. They have one of the greatest "stunt" comedies in vaudeville. Others billed: Nonette, the singing violinist assisted by Harold Solmon at the piano; Johnnie Berkes and Sheila Terry in a melange of mirth and melody; Yong Wong and Company, acrobats and jugglers; Charles Irwin, the modern comedian, late star of "Her Soldier Boy," Detroit's favorite, Frank DeVoe presenting excerpts from musical comedy; Jean Granesse, the unusual songstress with Brother Charles and Tito De Fiore; the Three Danubies, comedy gymnasts and the usual picture program.

EMERGENCY HAY CROPS MUST MEET SHORTAGE

With a greatly reduced clover and timothy hay crop starting in the face as a result of the dry spring season, Michigan farmers will in many cases be forced to resort to emergency short-season hay crops, according to crops men at the Michigan State College. Alfalfa and sweet clover are said to be coming through nicely, and those who have fields of these crops to cut for hay are congratulating themselves. Many others, however, will not even bother to cut their clover and timothy fields unless relief comes soon in the way of general rains. For these, the emergency "short-season" crops are important.

"The present emergency can be met partially by getting busy and seeding some shorter season crops, to tide over the shortage," says L. D. Kurtz, extension specialist in farm crops at the college. "These emergency crops produce excellent yields within a single season."

"Soy beans, sudan grass, the millets, and fodder, corn are among the short season crops that can be recommended. These should be seeded as soon as the earlier the better. The sown seed beds are important."

COMMUNICATION

Last Sunday the installation of the newly elected officers took place. Mr. Fred Garchow, elder; Mr. Elmer Garchow and Mr. Henry Burkowski, trustees; Mr. Henry Trapp, Jr. and son Mr. Arnold Garchow, school trustees.

This week St. Paul's Lutheran School closes another year with very gratifying results. All the pupils of the eighth grade were successful in their examinations at Farmington and took part in the graduating exercises at Pontiac. They are, Herbert Trapp, Louis Burkowski, Ethel Garchow, Lillian Kowalski and Viola Burkowski.

The annual school picnic will be held on the school grounds on the Fourth of July.

The Lutheran parochial or Christian day school is not an institution established to foster and promote ideals others than such as are absolutely and truly American. As far as citizenship and true-blue Americanism is concerned, it does not aim to inculcate principles which it is not also the aim of our public school system to teach. With the Lutheran Christian day school is a matter of emphasis. He is aware of his school's duty to provide not only for the temporal interest of his children, but above all things for their spiritual welfare. For that reason he gladly supports the public school system with his taxes, because he is fully conscious of its necessity. But as regards his own children, he wants them to have a religious education, which the public schools do not and cannot offer if the constitutional principle of separation of church and State is to stand inviolate. And since no institution can better serve to give a child an adequate Christian training than the Christian day school, the Lutheran Church, wherever local conditions permit, establishes its parochial schools to argue that an hour or so of religious instruction a week is sufficient is just as logical as to allow a child but one meal a week as adequate nourishment.
