

In a Garden of Romance

There's the music of Wedding Bells in June. Happy couples on honeymoons. Newlyweds taking up new lives in new homes.

June—with its roses and romance, its orange blossoms and weddings—June seems complete to brides and grooms. But—

THEY SHOULD HAVE BANK ACCOUNTS AS WELL AS LOVE!

Make your wedding bells the signal for the starting of a partnership which will work for the happiness, the comforts, the security and the progress that a growing bank account brings.

Telephone Cord Silk

The cocoons of 400,000,000 silk worms are used each year in the production of the telephone equipment manufactured by a single American company. The cord leading from the base of every desk telephone alone requires twenty-four spools of silk. Since a cocoon, when unwound, yields a fiber more than four times as long as the Woolworth building is high, Enterprise Liners bring results.
